LAWYER DECLARES HE THINKS THERE WAS A FRAME-UP IN INDICTMENTS.

ACCUSES THE FOREMAN

AND SAID ACTION WAS PLANNED BEFORE JURY SELECTION.

TURMOIL IN COURT ROOM

Spectators Demand That He Designate the Nine—Judge Says He Will Try a Wolf.

Fort Worth, Aug. 28.—Attorney William P. McLean Jr., testifying today as a witness in Judge Marvin Brown's investigation of his own grand jury, named Foreman F. W. Axtell and Felix M. Bransford as two grand jurors he believed in a conspiracy to indict innocent persons in order to clear someone else in the first Baptist church fire mystery.

Seven other members Mr. McLean charged, were misled, in his opinion, McLean and Albert J. Baskin, at the habeas corpus trial of J. W. Ratliff, under indictment on a charge of burning the church, charged that nine members of the grand jury were in a conspiracy.

Baskin, in his testimony, stated that A. W. Peninger, deputy state fire marshal, had told him that Clarence Miller, had told him on a train that Axtell would be foreman of the grand jury, Felix Bransford a member, and that the county attorney's force would be excluded. This was before the grand jury had been summoned, Peninger told Baskin.

Disorder among partisans got beyond control. At one time, deputy sheriffs forced T. L. Fuller, grand juror, and Tom Bradley, attorney, into their seats after partisans in the crowd had jammed every inch of floor space in the courtroom and shouted to McLean on the witness stand, "Name the nine," referring to the "at least nine grand jurors" he had charged with conspiracy.

McLean named F. W. Axtell, foreman of the grand jury, and Felix M. Bransford, the lawyer member of the grand jury, as two who of those who had conspired.

There was a burst of laughter at this from the crowd. Axtell rose and demanded that McLean name the nine and it was then that the partisans chimed in on the demand.

After this first outbreak, four deputy sheriffs took seats around the jury box, occupied by members of the grand jury.

FATAL KNIFE BATTLE

Dying Men Refuse to Tell Cause of Bloody Fight—No Firearms Used.

Indian Harbor, Ind., Aug. 28.—A feud born in the mountains of Roumania was fought to a bloody finish in the streets of this city today and five men are dying of knife wounds as a result of the battle. The injured are:

John Campeau, Samuel Metes, Joseph Serbu, Samuel Brazz, Nicholas Georges.

Those of the wounded who are able to speak refuse to give any account of the fight or its cause. Their countenances are equally reticent, beyond stating that the battle was the outcome of a Roumanian feud.

No firearms were used. The fighters grappled and stabbed each other with their long knives. Others probably were seriously injured, as several had to be helped away by comrades when the combatants retired from the field, leaving the five probably fatally wounded men lying on the ground.

HANDLE ASQUITH ROUGHLY

Two Suffragettes Attack British Prime Minister While on Golf Links.

Edin, Scotland, Aug. 28.—The British prime minister was the object of an attack this afternoon at which he chivalrously restrained himself from adequately defending himself. While he was golfing with his daughter on the Loamstown links two militant suffragettes, who had quietly come up to the green, sprang at Mr. Asquith suddenly. They knocked off his hat, grabbed him by the clothing and dragged him some distance over the ground.

The prime minister bore his rough treatment placidly and refrained from using force to make them desist, while they imparted to him their opinion that he was a second-rate and a postmaster in the arts of Ananias. Miss Asquith, who was a little distance off when the suffragettes pounced on her father, ran to his assistance and proceeded to apply militant methods to the militants.

The battle waged for only a few moments, when two detectives rushed up and with difficulty released Mr. Asquith from the clutches of the suffragettes. The detectives took the women to the club lodge, where after listening to various opinions of themselves hardly less complimentary than the premier, they had expressed of the premier, they were placed in a motor car and driven to the Edin police station, to the accompaniment of much booing and hissing and repeated cries of "let us get at them; we will duck them in the sea!"

At the station the women refused to give any addresses.

Mr. Asquith returned to his golf and the suffragettes had been taken away and was loudly cheered when he reached the last green.

Nine Ships on Cruise

Washington, Aug. 28.—Only nine battleships of the Atlantic fleet will make the Mediterranean cruise, planned for this fall, and they will not be accompanied by the torpedo flotilla, as the original program proposed. Secretary Daniels announced today it had been determined that it would be incurred unnecessary risk to have the destroyers make the return trip across the Atlantic in mid-winter, and that they would be sent to the Mediterranean at a more favorable season.

SENATE ACCEPTS GLENN'S MESSAGES

COMPLETES RECOGNITION OF ACTING GOVERNOR AT ALBANY.

DENOUNCES SULZER'S FRIEND

Judge Arnold Criticized in Both Branches of State Legislature for Charges Made.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Formal recognition of Lieutenant Governor Martin H. Glynn as acting governor of New York pending the issue of the impeachment proceedings against Wm. Sulzer was completed by the legislature today when the senate accepted three messages sent in by Mr. Glynn last night. The legislature later adjourned to September 17, the day before the Sulzer impeachment court convenes.

The day's proceedings in both houses were characterized by sharp denunciation of Governor Sulzer's close friend, Judge Lynn J. Arnold, who is seeking to procure indictments for felony against Senator Robert F. Wagner, majority leader, Senator Jas. J. Frawley, chairman of the committee which laid the foundations for the impeachment, and Speaker A. E. Smith and Majority Leader Aaron J. Levy, of the assembly.

Levy was charged by Judge Arnold, through Arnold's newspaper, with receiving a $5,000 bribe from former State Engineer Skene for influencing legislation. Senator Frawley was charged with bribery and other offenses, while Senator Wagner and Speaker Smith were accused of perjury in falsely certifying to a quorum. The men impugned declared their intention of seeking redress through civil and criminal action.

The plans of Democratic leaders to put through at today's session the several financial measures recommended by Acting Governor Glynn through inability to muster the three-fifths attendance of each house necessary to pass appropriation bills, Senator Frawley's feeling remarks on the floor in answer to the Arnold charges against him were construed as a threat to chastise his accuser.

"I have listened for six weeks to a statement every twenty-four hours—'Frawley will be in jail,' he said."

GAMBOA AGREES TO NOTHING

Mexico City, Aug. 28.—The announcement of the return of John Lind to Mexico City brought from Senor Gamboa, minister of foreign affairs, the declaration tonight that Mexico had agreed to nothing and that Senor Gamboa's note of August 26 to Mr. Lind was the last communication sent.

It was suggested to the minister that President Wilson's representative was coming to the capital to resume negotiations. Senor Gamboa replied that this appeared not unlikely, as he naturally expected a reply to his last note. He added that Mr. Lind would be entirely welcome at the capital and that personally he would be glad to see him.

It was reported late tonight from Vera Cruz that Mr. Lind intended to leave there Friday morning, adhering to the general instructions from Washington to avoid night trains, but it is considered possible that developments at Washington may cause postponement or abandonment of his plan to revisit the capital.

It is regarded here as possible that further conferences between Senor Gamboa and Lind may result in an agreement unless Washington continues to be a stickler for compliance to the letter of her demands for General Huerta's non-candidacy. Senor Gamboa's last note appeared to make it clear that it would be impossible for General Huerta to be a candidate for the presidency under the laws.

CAUCUS ACCEPTS CURRENCY BILL

ADOPTS RESOLUTION DECLARING IT A PARTY MEASURE—SUPPORT PLEDGED.

HENRY VOTES AGAINST

NINE DISSENTERS, AMONG THEM TEXAS REPRESENTATIVE.

IS PRACTICALLY UNCHANGED

In Reducement Provision Only Amendment Is to Arrange for Agricultural Paper.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The administration currency bill, after nearly three weeks of discussion, was finally approved by the house democratic caucus tonight, by a vote of 163 to 9. The nine dissenters were Representatives Henry, Eagle and Callaway, of Texas; Hardwick of Georgia; Lobeck of Nebraska; Buchanan and Fowler of Illinois; Neely of Kansas; and Sisson of Mississippi.

After agreeing to the bill the caucus adopted a resolution by an almost unanimous vote declaring the bill to be a party measure and that "members of this caucus are pledged for the bill to its final passage without amendment, provided, however, the banking and currency committee may offer amendments in the house."

The measure as it stands after adoption of caucus summed up by Chairman Glass, who piloted it through the caucus, as follows:

"There has not been written into the bill from one end to the other a single sentence except by the initiative of the banking and currency committee itself, which has altered in remotest detail the essential provision of the bill as originally reported by the committee to the caucus."

"The bill establishes twelve original reserve banks with a capital of not less than $100,000 each."

WRECK NEAR HARWOOD

PASSENGER DERAILED—SIXTEEN PERSONS SLIGHTLY INJURED. RELIEF TRAIN SENT.

Mrs. Teichmuller f. La Grange, Widow of Late Judge, Among Those Hurt.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 28.—Train No. 2 on the Southern Pacific railroad, due here at 4 o'clock this afternoon, was derailed half a mile west of Harwood at 10:20 this morning and at least sixteen passengers were slightly injured. A relief train was sent from San Antonio and the injured cared for. Two coaches turned over.

Among the injured are Mrs. H. Teichmuller, widow of the late Judge H. Teichmuller, who was for many years on the district bench in the La Grange district and was one of the best known judges in Texas.

DEPARTMENT STORE COLLAPSES

Five Are Killed and Dozen Injured. Walls Weakened by Repair Work.

Petersboro, Ont., Aug. 28.—A section of the department store of J. C. Turnbull & Co. collapsed without warning today, killing five persons and injuring nearly a dozen others. The accident was due to the weakening of the walls owing to interior alterations. A hundred workmen, clerks and shoppers went down in the crash.

SAYS MEXICO CAN SETTLE OWN AFFAIRS

SEÑOR MANUEL CALERO

"If the help which is offered Mexico in settlement of her internal difficulties were acceptable to any one of the contending parties and if that help were not repugnant to the very spirit of the Mexican people one might be able to understand why it was offered, but, being unacceptable to either of the contending parties and repugnant to the national sentiment, I hope that the good sense of the Washington statesmen will ultimately lead them to the proper conclusion that the best course now for them to pursue is to abstain from any interference in Mexican matters and at the same time have due respect for our rights."

In an exclusive interview Senator Manuel Calero, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Mexican Senate and formerly Mexican Ambassador to Washington, thus expressed his opinion of the most recent developments of the situation existing between the United States and Mexico.

HEED WARNING

The United States gunboat Nashville is expected to reach here tomorrow morning. It is expected that the warships will be distributed as follows:

At Vera Cruz, the Louisiana, Michigan and South Carolina.

At Tampico, the New Hampshire.

At Tuxpan and Minatitlan, Tacoma.

At Campeche, Wheeling.

One transport carries supplies for the fleet and the Nashville carries orders. All the vessels have instructions to receive refugees and to furnish transportation to the United States by way of Vera Cruz.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Americans in Mexico are heeding President Wilson's warning to get out and state depart. Sent officials believe that two weeks hence there will be scarcely a thousand of them left in the troubled zone of the southern republic. Although many had refused to consider leaving before word came of the president's advice, hundreds have been starting for home or abroad daily during the past three weeks. Of those now preparing to leave, 4,000 will need help from the government, so the $100,000 appropriation asked for by Secretary Bryan some time ago to aid refugees will be needed immediately. Of the 4,000, about 2,000 will come out by the east coast ports and the northern border; the other 1,000 through west coast ports.

Since last February the state department has aided, it was said today between 4,000 and 5,000 refugees furnishing transportation in some cases, in others setting special rates or reductions the individuals themselves could not get.

Department officials estimate that there were about 60,000 Americans in Mexico two or three years ago. Ambassador Wilson places the number as high as 75,000.

In aiding the American refugees, the American Red Cross has spent about $25,000. Last year the trips which the west coast steamer Buford made down the west coast to Mazatlan, Manzanillo and other ports, cost the war department about $35,000.

High praise of R. A. Cummins, British vice consul at Gomez Palacio, which was in the center of the recent fighting around Torreon, was given in a report today from American Consul Agent Carothers at Torreon, who said Mr. Cummins on several occasions risked his life in his efforts to assist British and American subjects and that he harbored large numbers of refugees in his own home among them about thirty Chinese who feared a repetition of the massacre of several years ago.

The price of foodstuffs in certain sections has become almost prohibitive, it is reported, meat having gone down to a few cents a pound.

AMERICANS HEED WILSON'S WARNING

CONSTERNATION AMONG U. S. CITIZENS IN TROUBLE ZONE.

PRICE OF FOOD PROHIBITIVE

Many Leave All Means of Livelihood. Consulate Crowded With Inquiries.

Vera Cruz, Aug. 28.—President Wilson's representative, John Lind, will remain in Vera Cruz for several days. This announcement was made late tonight. Only unexpected happenings or a special request from the Mexican government will cause him to return to Mexico City.

So far Senor Gamboa, minister of foreign affairs, has not asked Mr. Lind to return to the capital.

It is further announced that Mr. Lind will make Vera Cruz his headquarters because he has suffered from ill health in Mexico City.

William Bayard Hale sailed this morning on the steamer Moro Castle for Havana. He will disembark there and proceed by the Key West route to Washington. He carries with him the originals of the Mexican government's communications.

Dr. Hale had a long conference with Mr. Lind prior to sailing and the latter attaches much importance to Dr. Hale's trip to Washington, where he is to place the whole situation before the president.

Towards the end of the conference they were joined by Rear Admiral Fletcher. The Moro Castle was delayed in port more than two hours waiting for Dr. Hale.

The United States gunboat Nashville is expected to reach here tomorrow morning. It is expected that the warships will be distributed as follows:

METHOD OF APPROACHING DIFFICULTIES MORE FRIENDLY THAN BEFORE.

HE DOES NOT RECEDE

TO BE BASIS FOR BELIEF OF AGREEMENT.

CANDIDACY OF HUERTA ISSUE

Lind Suggests All Other Proposals Be Laid Aside—National Pride Is Factor.

Washington, Aug. 28.—President Wilson received a long message from John Lind at Vera Cruz late tonight, outlining the prospects of a settlement of the Mexican problem in most optimistic terms. While absolute silence was maintained at the White House, there was a well defined impression in official circles that the Huerta government and Mr. Lind had reached a preliminary agreement which might lead to peace in the southern republic.

It was stated on high authority that the situation was more encouraging than it has been at any time since Mr. Lind went to Mexico. The message to the president was essentially a summary of the points made by the Huerta government in its last note, which was carried to Vera Cruz today by Col. Manuel M. Guasque. While no details were made public, it is understood that both the United States and the Huerta government feel they can renew negotiations on a franker basis.

There were persistent reports current that Huerta had stated he would make public announcement of his intention not to be a candidate in the coming election, but they lacked confirmation in official quarters.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Strong hope prevailed in official circles tonight that the Huerta government and the United States would arrive at a mutual understanding leading to a peaceful settlement of the revolutionary disturbances in Mexico.

Administration officials expressed themselves as pleased with the day's developments, as they had left to be a candidate for the coming elections. The full text of the two communications was received here, and while neither side, according to official interpretation, yields any of the essential points in its contentions, the method of approaching the difficulties at hand admittedly is more friendly and framed with more regard for a practical solution.

Officials found encouragement, too, in Mr. Lind's decision to return to the Mexican capital, as they had left to his discretion to return there if there was a prospect of renewing negotiations along tangible lines.

The two notes exchanged by Lind and Gamboa were published here today and official Washington read them closely.

Much interest was manifested in the suggestions made by Lind that all proposals be laid aside for the present except that which asks Huerta not to be a candidate in the coming elections. It was learned that while President Wilson knew the gist of Mr. Lind's second proposals, he was not acquainted until today with the text of the communication in which Mr. Lind promised that his last suggestions were accepted, assurances would be given American bankers of the moral support of the American government for a loan to rehabilitate the finances of the present Mexican regime.

The White House view of the offer of the loan was that should the present effort to bring about peace appear to be bearing fruit, it would be incumbent upon the United States to help Mexico straighten out her financial tangles.

Gamboa's Argument.

The argument of Senor Gamboa that Huerta, as provisional president of Mexico, was prohibited by the Mexican constitution from succeeding himself, and that the American contention, therefore, was unnecessary, was scrutinized closely, but some officials pointed out that no guarantee existed that Huerta would not resign at some time prior to the election, and thereby make himself eligible. It was suggested, too, that to accept the citation of the Mexican constitution as sufficient restriction on Huerta's candidacy, might be construed as a recognition of Huerta as the constitutionally chosen ruler of the southern republic.

Notwithstanding this view, however, hope was found in the vigorous disclaimer of Senor Gamboa that anyone should have suspected Huerta of desiring to become a candidate, for this was regarded as a tacit implication of a mile from the fort, and only two parts, a leg and an arm, were found together.

Harry Whitley and Robert Crinkley, boys of about Ball's age, who were with him, were knocked down by the explosion, but escaped without serious injury. The boys had been out hunting and were returning home when they passed the fort.

M'DERMOTT TO TAKE STAND TODAY

Washington, Aug. 28.—Investigation of the Mulhall charges before the senate lobby committee neared an end today, while on the house side of the capitol the investigators continued hearing testimony in defense of Representative James T. McDermott of Chicago, charged with misconduct by M. M. Mulhall and I. H. McMichael. The senate committee expects to conclude its examination of officers of the National Association of Manufacturers within a week and then recess probably will be taken until December, when the alleged "labor lobby" will be investigated.

Witnesses at the stand before the house committee today and denied statements of Mulhall and McMichael against McDermott. The chief witness was Geo. W. Fleming, a brother-in-law of McDermott, who worked with Mulhall when the latter went to Chicago in 1910 to collect campaign funds for McDermott. Fleming said Mulhall collected but two checks for $100 each and got a "take-off" of $25 on each. He told of the $250 McCormick check on which McDermott signed Mulhall's name, swearing that Mulhall had been called back to Baltimore and had authorized the endorsement.

McDermott probably will take the stand tomorrow.

J. A. Emery, Washington representative of the National Association of Manufacturers, before the senate committee denied emphatically that the association had violated the law with regard to campaign funds. He made a statement as to what he had sought to accomplish here, pointing to several instances in which labor legislation had failed, and said that while he did not claim credit for its failure, he believed the association had contributed to that end.

Senator Brandegee appeared before the committee to correct his previous testimony that he was not interested financially in anything affected by the tariff. Senator Brandegee said he found that he owned $7,500 stock in a gold mine and $1,000 stock in a Canadian copper mine.

exercise of its sovereign rights and in this respect, will not hesitate, especially in time of serious domestic troubles, to consummate it in the manner proposed. In the judgment of the president of the United States of America and not in that of Mexico, may be best for this latter. You add sincerely and ardently believes that my exertions will see to the suggestion of his excellency, Mr. Woodrow Wilson, the most feasible plan for serving our vital interests and for insuring the speedy re-establishment of our domestic tranquility. And always, I will submit to the consideration of my government the three following propositions:

Mr. Lind's Suggestions.

"1.—That the election called for the sixteenth of next November (the present year the note sent to the foreign office by Mr. Lind stated October 26th and not 16th), shall be held in accordance with the constitutional laws of Mexico.

"2.—That President Huerta, in the manner originally indicated by the president of the United States, give the assurance called for in paragraph "C" of the original instructions, a paragraph which says literally 'the consent of General Huerta to assure the candid candidature in the coming election for president of the republic.'

"3.—That the remaining propositions contained in your original instructions shall be taken up later, but speedily and resolved under circumstances permit, and at the spirit of their proposal.

"You add furthermore that the president of the United States of America has authorized you to say that if my government acts 'immediately and favorably upon' the propositions submitted to me, the president will 'express to American bankers and their associates assurances that the government of the United States of America will then look with favor upon the extension of an immediate and sufficient credit to Mexico for the temporary requirements of the present Mexican administration.

"At the end of your note, Mr. Confidential Agent, you express the hope that my government will 'act in the best and highest interests of Mexico,' immediately to accept such propositions, stating that they are submitted in the same spirit and to the same end as the original instructions, and that my government may act 'within its faculties without the co-operation or aid of any other outside factor.

Wilson Does Not Change.

"It appears at once that the case of his excellency, Mr. Woodrow Wilson, is not to remove himself an iota from the position originally assumed by him for, notwithstanding the time consumed since the sixteenth of the date of my first proposition, the efforts in which you delivered to me your second note which I am answering, the essence and even the

But inasmuch as this qualification is of no importance on the ground that all the representation of the government have been initiated except with ourselves which gives us upon the supposition that we have not been dispossessed of it, a perfect political right and more personally to clear up the present emergency, I intend to press my case solely to point out the facts, and to be admitted, they are now, in more restricted form in which they are reproduced, even more inadmissi-

The reports that the federals had captured Sabinas or were anywhere near there was found to be false. From impartial sources it was learned that Alberto Guajardo, who was reported to have captured Mesquique with some 600 federals, was really at the Conchos ranch, thirty or forty miles northeast of Sabinas in the mountains, with a force not to exceed eighty men.

SHALL IT BE MACKAY PARK? ASKS THE WOMEN
A telephone message followed the idea that a name should be suggested for the East Side park which was opened last night. This was from a woman on the South Side, who advanced the desire to have the new park christened "The Mackay." She gives as her reason for the suggestion that Mackay has characterized his administration by a forethought for the pleasure of the people, especially of the children. He has advocated parks, and band concerts, and more than any one else, playgrounds for the children. He is committed to another step, that of attention to the suffering brute and to the neglected child. All this the women have noted, and it is timely that one should voice the desire of many, that Mayor Mackay's administration be memorialized by a park bearing his name. What think the citizens generally?

THE MARY WEST CHAPTER WITH MRS. C. N. SMITH
In the absence of the president, Mrs. Edith Leasing, Mrs. C. N. Smith is acting president of the Mary West chapter. It was the pleasure of Mrs. Smith to have the chapter hold its August meeting with her. The state historian sent no program, yet it was deemed best for the chapter to meet in order that plans for representation at the Cotton Palace, also in the parade on Woman's day, could be discussed. Mrs. W. W. Lastinger as local historian, requested the members of the chapter to relate war reminiscences as substitute for the formal program and some of the reminiscences were indeed interesting. Among the musical numbers, Miss Pearl Gillis as pianist was much enjoyed. Mrs. Araminta Branson gave a more extended review in a paper, "The South Before the War," as introduction to the personal experiences told by those present. The voice numbers were from Mrs. J. W. Harris. Mrs. Smith offered refreshments during the social chats. About twenty were present.

HAVE CARE OF THE TREES AROUND THE HOME YARD
We may not all know this, but it is true that Waco receives almost her first compliment upon the number and the beauty of her trees. Especially do the visitors from other states remark upon this asset to our beauty. When the men from all parts of this country and Canada came with the "excursion" from the Amicable building this exclamation upon the number of our trees was general. An expert says, "Trees are much the most important furnish in the city beautiful." Not one man in the hundred gives personal attention to his home grounds; therefore, it is for the women of Waco to preserve and to increase the beauty of our trees. This applies to the trimming and the care in the home yard; also to the vacant lot. Plant the trees whether the lot is occupied or not. Think what this means to the comfort and the beauty of this lot when it does become a home. Women talk glibly enough about their community interest when it comes to the count of the husband's dollars and cents; why not that same community interest when it comes to the beauty feature in what the husband owns?

THE SOMETHING NEW OCCURS REGARDING HOME SWEET HOME
It is not too true that we are constantly coming across something which we thought we knew, to find that we were in absolute ignorance? This thought is forced upon the writer when she found that she had never known one thing about our own

"Home Sweet Home." She had heard in the long ago of the search for the body of John Howard Payne and the begging that it might be given to America and repose upon American soil, because, as a wanderer, Payne had written these soul-appalling verses. The writer also recalled that Payne, forlorn and penniless, used to wander over the beautiful Tuilleries Garden in Paris, because he had no home to shelter him. He heard the birds sing and he saw the beautiful flowers. One night, seated, it came over him, and he took out his notebook to pen the now immortal lines. This is the story the writer had heard and believed about the author and the verses of "Home, Sweet Home." Now, Bartlett's book of quotations shatters every bit of this sentiment. It gives the lines of Home, Sweet Home and attaches to them, "From the opera of 'Clari, the Maid of Milan.' What does it mean? Did John Howard Payne write a full opera? If he did, where is it?"

A PRETTY HOME SERVICE FOR AN ATTRACTIVE BRIDE
It is now that friends are to welcome Miss Katherine Hooks as a young bride, the wife of W. L. Wilkinson of Houston. This is the outcome of a pretty little home service with the bride's mother, Mrs. S. C. Hooks of North Fourteenth. The family is one long identified with this city; indeed, the bride grew to young womanhood here, and is a graduate of the piano department of the Waco conservatory. She has since spent much of her time out of the city, but the last of her girlhood years has been passed here, where she has participated in the social life of her friends. The groom came unattended, and there was none to accompany the bride to her home altar other than Miss Manty Arnold Webb, who carried the ring. Reverend John G. Kendall was the celebrant. The nuptial song was given by Mrs. B. B. McReynolds, with Mrs. T. O. Glover at the piano. Palms in their freshest foliage for the parlor made the home altar. The graceful asparagus plant used in fern spray and held by a chiffon bow, two hundred and fifty invitations in all were issued, those in the city being to about fifty of the family and close friends. The acknowledgment both in and out of the city were elaborate and handsome. Mrs. B. B. McReynolds, who is now in Galveston for a few days before their home stop in Houston. There, Mr. Wilkinson's friends will repeat the demonstration of friendship over this happy event.

Society Notes.
Over in England when the time arrives for the regattas, races and other social impetus, the paragraphs remark, "The silly season is now opening." In this season of house party visits, the woman's suit case has come upon a new term. Some call it the visiting case. What is a "flapper" girl? We are seeing references to her. The Mesdames Flora Cameron and Edward Bolton will reach Island just in time to witness the annual Kirmess, the national festival of the Dutch. That the Academy of the Sacred Heart opens with Wednesday is to feel that autumn is here sure enough. School days, invariably mark the change of seasons, even though, to paraphrase a line from Shakespeare, summer linkers in the lap of fall. An ingenious California woman who desired to use her sleeping porch as a day living room, hit upon the idea of having permanent seats by means of planks built around the wall, covered with comfortable cushions. Under these was laid the low bed, after the old-fashioned trundle kind. The plan is reported quite a success, and the demonstration once again that necessity is the mother of invention. Here is something many women will like. It is taken from an article upon sound advice to married women. The drift of argument is for the wife to keep herself attractive; if a rug and a new gown are both needed, the article says, by all means buy the gown. We are not saying whether or not we agree, but if a wife wants a new gown very, very bad, why not show this to the husband? More than once the writer has been urged to collect and publish a "Who's Who" for Waco. She would not dare for there is any single woman here who does not feel herself entitled to front place on the front page? By the way, have you decided who shall be considered the leader of Waco society. One name only has been mentioned so far. Battle Creek is soon to have a group of agreeable Waco matrons. A change of plan has decided Mrs. Sidney Burrows to go to Battle Creek instead of New Orleans. She, with Mrs. Charles Moore, is leaving within the next few days. At Chicago they will be joined by Mrs. Charles Badger from Cleveland. Later Mrs. William Neale, who is going East in a few days, returns by way of a Battle Creek sojourn. The last cards from Mr. and Mrs. F. E. McLarty were mailed from Providence, R. I. In this they state that they have engaged water passage from New York City to New Orleans for September the tenth. The Mesdames Julia Henry and J. D. Bell, with Miss Birdie Bell, have left Alabama and are enjoying the intellectual and social side of life at Monticello. Miss Evelyn Friedman has just received word that one of her dialect stories has been accepted and will be published in the September issue of the Interurban, one of the American Magazine association's publications. Morris French is the editor. Miss Friedman's friend, the reading of her story with interest.

Mrs. A. B. Warner, with her sister, Mrs. Dunn of Whitney, is leaving her country place of sojourn among the mountains, and is going into Asheville with this week. The homecoming depends upon when cool weather here is assured. Miss Elsie Simmons sends card to tell of the wonderful scenic trip down the Saint Lawrence which she with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Simmons, has just enjoyed. Miss Simmons reports the weather uncomfortable, the Canadian cities will all be visited, and Niagara viewed upon the home trip. When we have the joy of speeding along our very own riverside, why not some other public-spirited women undertake to make a beauty line of Waco creek, also of Barron's branch? There are possibilities here for something magnificent in developing a city's natural picturesqueness. Suppose the women really think about this. It can not be done in a day nor a year, but the start can be made. Why not begin by parking the sides of Waco creek between Cotton Palace and Harrington; then from Harrington to Carroll; then from Carroll to Edgfield, the women of each neighborhood undertaking that which lies nearest.

It is not the endless chain any more. We call it the tree with so many branches, some old and some just shooting out. It is really a reflection upon a woman not to belong to a club. It says that she is selfish and unprogressive; selfish, because she is not willing to do her part towards comfort and happiness for less fortunate; unprogressive, because she is willing to run along in the old rut.

Mrs. O. L. Strubling, who has been in Chicago, is today arriving in Tulpe, Miss., the home of her girlhood. She makes a visit there before returning to Waco.

Society Personals.
Mrs. H. H. Holt of West Austin, is at home from Colorado. After two weeks with friends and relatives, Miss Mary Evans Brown of Dallas, is now in Austin. Mrs. L. E. Nicholson, who visited relatives here, has returned home to Shreveport, accompanied by Rene Etchison. Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Gay, who have summered at Corpus Christi, are returning home with Saturday. After a coast sojourn with Mrs. J. A. Lord, Mrs. van Wyck of Austin avenue, has returned. The Misses Harrison, who had been summer guests of their aunt, Mrs. Hart Moore, are again at home in San Marcos. Among the arrivals expected within the week is that of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross, Miss Mary Ross and Mrs. J. W. Mann, from California. Mrs. J. D. Newton of North Seventeenth, is at home from Grandview, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Moore, who will remain a few weeks. The Misses Dilworth of North Thirteenth, are at home from Colorado. Mrs. W. L. Perry and the Misses Perry of North Thirteenth, were due from the East with Thursday. Mrs. J. B. Sawtelle of North Eighteenth, is at home from Colorado. Mrs. Keith Watson Matthews is down from Dallas, the guest of Mrs. S. E. Stratton since Thursday. The Misses Gamel will take a night class in Spanish beginning September 1st, 7:30 a lesson. Ring either phone No. 27.

Try Parliament Members.
Peking, China, Aug. 28.—Both houses of the Chinese parliament today passed resolutions requiring the government to try the members of parliament who had been placed under arrest. The government afterward hinted that it would comply with the request, but the deputies representing the southern provinces express their distrust of the government.

Thinks Fashions Prove Women Are Not Fit to Vote

That women will have to learn to dress properly before they can be trusted to vote properly is the belief of the second lady of the land. On a recent occasion when some particularly flamboyant freak in dress drew the attention of the wife of the Vice President, Mrs. Marshall, she was heard to remark that such shocking modes were doing more to delay the advent of suffrage than all the arguments of the opposition.

CAUCUS /CEPTS CURRENCY

less than $5,000,000 each, to which National banks are required to contribute an amount equal to ten per cent of their own capital stock and to become liable for an additional ten per cent in case of call. This, it is estimated, will give the regional reserve banks a combined paid up capital of $16,000,000. These regional reserve banks also made custodians of a large part of the reserve money of member banks, estimated at about $10,000,000 in the aggregate. They also receive the 20-cent deposit, estimated at from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000. Over the whole system of regional reserve banks is to be a federal reserve board, consisting of seven members. This board is to exercise extensive powers of supervision, examination and control. The measure provides an advisory council of bankers without actual power composed of one member from each of the 12 regional reserve districts. One important provision is for the gradual reforming for a period of 20 years of the United States 2 per cent bonds into three per cent government bonds without the circulation privilege. This will mean the eventual retirement of national bank notes. The circulation privilege will thus revert to the government itself, issuing, through the regional reserve banks on a gold reserve of 33 1/3 per cent to be provided by the banks. The notable reserve features of the bill contemplate a reduction of the reserve requirements of reserve and central reserve cities from 25 to 15 per cent and of all country banks from 15 to 12 per cent. The federal reserve board is required to establish a graduated tax on the amounts, which banks may be permitted to fall below reserve requirements, such tax to be uniform in its application to all banks. National banks are compelled to become members of the system on the penalty of forfeiture of charters, while state banks are permitted to become members under regulations of the federal reserve board. Concerning the provisions relating to rediscount, over which there was such a prolonged fight, and as a substitute for which Representative Henry and others offered arguments, comprising eighteen printed pages, the only change was to add two and one-quarter typewritten lines, declaring that nothing contained in the bill should be construed to prohibit the rediscounting of notes and bills of exchange secured by agricultural products and other goods, wares and merchandise.

Injects Mexican.
A second unsuccessful attempt was made in the currency caucus of house democrats today to put through a resolution expressing confidence in the policy pursued by President Wilson in the Mexican situation. Immediately there was objection on the ground that such a matter should not be treated as a partisan one. Representative Saunders of Virginia introduced the resolution as he did on the previous occasion. Representative Hardwick of Georgia made a point of order and many members participated in the parliamentary discussion. Finally the caucus adjourned until tomorrow with the resolution held indefinitely in abeyance. Senator Bacon, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, today issued a statement declaring that a congressional resolution endorsing the president's Mexican policy was unnecessary. "The magnificent reception of the president by the senate and house assembled together yesterday," he said, "and the overwhelming endorsement by senators and representatives, regardless of party and without a single discordant note, is better than any formal resolution of endorsement."

This Is the Costume for Chicago Policewomen

The Chicago policewoman, soon to be a feature of Chicago life, will wear a gatty and stylish uniform and the one shown here in the illustration is chosen for her. A significant feature of the skirt is a pistol pocket on the right side. Whether or not she will actually carry a pistol there is not known, and perhaps will not be known till the first policewoman marches out on her tour of duty.

Modern Improvements. (London Chronicle.)

The discovery of a prehistoric Turkish bath in Ireland reminds one how ancient are most of the things about which modern civilization boasts. An automatic machine was in use to supply sacrificial water in an ancient Greek temple. Queen Maria Theresa had an elevator in her house at Luxemburg at least as early as 1777, and an omnibus was running in Paris in 1662. In 1667 Robert Hooke conveyed sounds to a distance by distended wire—telephoned, in fact.

NATIONAL AID TO GOOD ROADS.

The improvement of our highways is not keeping pace with other transportation development, says Jonathan Bourne, Jr., in the September number of the North American Review, and as a consequence, the wagon haul to and from the railroad is relatively the greater part of the cost of transportation between producer and consumer. This phase of the subject has been so frequently and so thoroughly discussed by transportation experts that the facts are now well known.

"The bill I have suggested," continues Mr. Bourne, "briefly states, permits a State to deposit its fifty-year 4 per cent bonds in the United States treasury and receive the face value thereof from funds raised by the sale of government 3 per cent, non-taxable bonds, the State bonds to be retired without the payment of the principal otherwise than by crediting the State with the difference between 3 per cent and 4 per cent, together with 3 per cent compound interest on this difference.

"My plan provides for federal loans to the total amount of $1,000,000,000 for construction and the apportionment of this aid among the States upon a basis of area, population, assessed valuation and road mileage, each factor being given equal weight. Thus each State will receive aid in accordance with its needs.

"This plan also provides for aid in maintenance, each State to receive annually from the federal treasury an amount equal to 2 per cent of the amount of State bonds on deposit provided the State expends a similar amount for maintenance.

"It is also provided in the suggested plan that no State shall receive federal aid until it has established a State highway commission with general supervision over the expenditure of funds received from the government and also that the bonds of the State shall not be accepted if the total bonded indebtedness of the State, including the bonds issued in accordance with the provisions of the national highway law shall exceed 10 per cent of the assessed valuation. These requirements insure efficient supervision of road expenditures and prevent such an excessive indebtedness as might impair the credit of a State or cast doubt upon the soundness of its bonds."

THE BUSINESS SITUATION.

Without attempting to minimize the various disturbing influences in this country and abroad, the Christian Science Monitor says the business situation holds forth much that is promising. Money conditions throughout the world have eased considerably, there is less apprehension in the United States regarding the tariff, and an impatient energy is waiting to make itself felt in the enterprise. In anticipation of a reduction in duties and the consequences entailed the business interests of this country have been operating on a most conservative basis. To use a stock market term, the country is thoroughly "liquidated." Manufacturers who would be most directly affected by the new tariff are beginning to make plans for future operations with the tariff question still unsettled but with confidence of fairly profitable business with the duties off. This is particularly true with the woolen industry. Much courage has been shown by woolen manufacturers lately in planning for future business in keen competition with Europeans.

There is certainly reason for encouragement, notwithstanding the Mexican situation now causing some apprehension in this country, the still disturbed political conditions abroad, and various other unsettled factors. A glance at the figures showing the growth of this country's export trade should convince anyone of the splendid achievements in manufacturing lines. Exports of manufactures in the last ten years have increased 153 per cent, against 24 per cent in all other articles exported. And still the development of American business in other countries has scarcely started. As compared with what other countries have done, the United States is away in the background. Opportunities are most abundant and it is safe to assume that when, with reduced duties, American manufacturers find themselves confronted with European competition on their own soil they will make greater endeavor to cultivate the foreign field for their own benefit.

The steel business has experienced some slackening in activity lately, and lower prices have prevailed for finished products in order to induce new buying. The mills are depending largely on old orders. It is estimated that new business is coming in at the rate of about 50 per cent of capacity. This means a falling off in production later, unless a new buying movement starts in. Further price concessions may have to be made in order to induce the placing of contracts, but it most largely depends upon general conditions. With easier money the railroads are likely to come into the market for much material, for they have been buying very sparingly of late. The steel trade long has been regarded as the backbone of business and the industry will be watched with much interest during the next few months.

SHEER SILLINESS.

Excusing our governor for the somewhat worse than undignified phrasing of his comment on the suggestion of the governor of Connecticut that States should regulate nominations for public office, the same as in elections, it is to agree with the substance of his objection that the idea is impracticable and farcical. The conference of commonwealths' executives in Colorado Springs appears to be not altogether a feast of wisdom, or of reason. For Governor Baldwin to advise that the State should assume the expense of nominations "so that the poor man would not be deterred from entering politics because of the lack of necessary funds, which often furnishes ground for the accusation that a worthy candidate, though poor, is forced to accept the help of those whose support is an incumbrance" is to supply, possibly, a fairly good reason in favor of State (like the federal) laws limiting the amount of campaign expenses, but it is not advancing a plausible argument why the public should pay for the exploiting of personal political ambitions.

The New England executive considers the State should pay for printing and distributing primary ballots, traveling expenses of candidates and speakers for their candidates, incidental expenses. It is difficult to imagine a more highly objectionable outlay by the people. And when Mr. Carey, of Wyoming, in response to Mr. Colquitt's gratuitous information that it cost him some $16,000 to get elected, asked our governor if his friends expected to get their money's worth for contributing nine thousand of the sixteen, he did not make a point in favor of popular support of political candidates in a financial way. How many exceedingly objectionable men would offer for public jobs if this entailed little or no expense on their part?

With the leaders of the Democratic party for the past three or four national conventions, we agree thoroughly that campaign expenses should be kept within strict, though reasonable bounds—this to obviate, in degree, the corruption that goes with vote buying and the outlay of large sums to "work" this district or that center of personal influence. But to say that "many worthy candidates" are deterred, or are put at a keen disadvantage, by being unable to meet for themselves the common expenses of seeking primary nomination is to ask the general public to believe that the average seeker of lesser public office goes into the race expecting to return "pull" for the advance of a handful of dollars to pay his ballot fees with the county chairman. It is also to argue that there is sensible excuse for the obscure citizen seeking office, since it may be assumed that any man who is fairly well known in district or through the State is well able to afford the expenses of announcing for the primaries.

The public already is burdened with too many undesirable wanters of office who can pay their expenses or have them paid, and it is not to be concluded that if the State were to pay nomination seekers' expenses the breed would be appreciably lessened. Nor is it to say that a poor man who has done things, who is known—as he must be—to a wide circle of the electorate and who is respected for his record and his achievements, cannot legitimately run for a nomination and accept help from his personal friends, individuals, without incurring suspicion of promising to return value received.

Mr. Colquitt is quoted as saying ("hotly") that his friends in Texas are "getting their money's worth" for the $9,000 they contributed to his campaigning—he even invited the governor of Wyoming to bet his life to that effect. We assume Mr. Colquitt, with his unflinching modesty, means that he is making Texas and his friends therein a very successful governor. Nevertheless, we are glad the $16,000 he spent to be returned to Austin was not a charge on the State treasury. There have been too many occasions when this cost to the people would have made regret for his performances even more poignant.

EDUCATING THE FARMERS.

"Chautauquas" have become highly important recently in the teaching of agriculture. "Each year," declares F. B. Jenks in his annual review of agricultural instruction for the United States bureau of education, "the chautauqua movement becomes a more decided factor in the education of the farmer. The programs, which in the early history of the movement consisted principally of Bible study and recreation, have been considerably broadened, and special features dealing with farm life are becoming more popular and more frequent. It is now a common occurrence to find these programs offering courses in stock judging, poultry raising, soils, seed testing, household economy, etc.

"Scores of new assemblies are organized every year, and the favorite field is the rural district. Over 500 local chautauquas were held the past season in Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and Missouri, more than 100 being held in towns with an average population of only 500. In some places boys' and girls' clubs have been formed in connection with the chautauquas, and exhibitions and demonstrations of their work have formed an important part of the program."

Another special agency in agricultural education described by Mr. Jenks is the grange, or, to give it its official title, "The Order of Patrons of Husbandry." Since its revival in 1890, the grange has developed into the largest and most influential national organization of farmers, with 30,000 subsidiary granges and more than a million members. Educational work is prominent in the grange, the "lecturer's hour" being everywhere established. There is frequently a series of lectures on some problem of agricultural education, and here and there classes have been formed to carry on college work in agriculture by correspondence. Particularly important has been the influence of the grange in having agriculture introduced into the public schools as a regular school subject.

OUR JUDICIOUS HOUSEWIVES.

Mr. P. T. Barnum used to say that it didn't make much difference what people said about him, just so they talked about him. This view of publicity is, of course, the view of the circus man. It will not meet with approval of people in all walks of life. It holds true, however, with those interested in increasing the consumption of rice. Rice needs advertising, it needs talking about and, as in the circus man's case, it doesn't matter much what is said about rice, just so people keep on talking about it.

The news that the Southern Rice Growers' association was attempting to export a million sacks of rice in order to get rid of the surplus crop and thus maintain a fair price for the producer has reached the National Housewives' league and that organization, in its zeal and without very great consideration, decided that it did not want the surplus rice crop exported and thereby enable the producer to get a fair price for his crop. The National Housewives' league is evidently looking upon the matter of living cost from a very superficial, rather than a practical, viewpoint. Simmons' Spice Mill, a publication devoted to marketing cereals, spices and foodstuffs, contains this article in the August issue:

The National Housewives' league launched a campaign August 5 against the Southern Rice Growers' association to prevent the rice growers from exporting part of their product at a loss in order to keep up the price in the United States. A special meeting of the national executive committee was held at the home of the national president, Mrs. Julian Heath, 175 W. 88th street, New York, and letters of protest were sent to the secretary of agriculture and the chief of the bureau of markets.

The executive committee's action will be followed by similar action by local Housewives' leagues throughout the United States with a total membership of over half a million. It was suggested at the meeting in New York that if the price is boosted this half million of women may be asked to scratch the word "rice" off their grocery list for the year.

It is encouraging to know that the National Housewives' league is interested to such an extent in rice. But it would be vastly more gratifying if the league would look into the rice situation a bit closer and discover that the price of the rice to the consumer is not in the least regulated by the price the producer gets. Rice has sold for far less than it cost to grow it and yet the consumer has paid the same as when the farmer reaped a golden harvest of dollars from his crop. The plan to export has been abandoned but the housewives need not have been concerned about it. The housewives will pay just the same for the rice they get from their grocer, no matter whether the farmer gets $2 or $4 for his rough rice.

UNUSUAL CROP FIGURES.

A contributor to Farm and Fireside shows how American crop yields per acre are vastly under the crop yields of Europe. He says that we must cut down our big farms and ranches and divide them into smaller tracts. It is a common saying, he adds, that a man can make more money in the cultivation of ten acres than he can from twenty acres, and more from twenty than he can from thirty. Following is an extract from the article:

If our farmers can make anything with an average wheat yield of 13 bushels, what might they not make with 26, the same as some of our foreign countries?

From wheat we turn to oats. While our yield per acre is 29 bushels, that of Germany is over 50; Austria's is practically the same as ours; Hungary's is very little better; France comes with 31.6 Winchester bushels, and the United Kingdom with 14. Our barley yield of 25.5 bushels is not so bad in comparison with the foreign nations; for Russia's is 14.3; Germany's 35.3; Austria's 26.3; Hungary's 23.4; France's 23.6; United Kingdom 35.

Rye finds the United States with an average yield of 16 bushels, Russia 11.5, Germany 25.6, Austria 19, Hungary 17.6, France 17, Ireland 37.5.

In potatoes the United States takes the lowest average of any country. If our irrigation States' records average of 119 bushels were maintained throughout the country, it would not be so bad, and then it would be low in comparison with the foreign countries. But our average drops down to 84 bushels, while Russia has 100; Germany 260, Austria 151, Hungary 118.7, France 128.8, United Kingdom 193.8. Big yields of potatoes are very common in some of those old countries.

Texas Viewpoints

Discussing Etiquette.

State Press in the Dallas News indulges in a rather extended comment upon Vernon Call's apparent regret that it is no longer fashionable to drink one's coffee from the saucer. Both editors indicate by their drift that it was once upon a time considered quite proper to drink from the saucer and eat with a knife. As a matter of fact, was it ever approved by people of good taste? It frequently turns out that environments change and the man finds himself in an atmosphere of good taste and culture which he was not used to when he was a boy.

Tired of Mere Notoriety.

The Galveston Tribune says Roger Thompson who drove the big black car in which Thaw escaped from Mat-tewan will now be in demand by vaudeville managers. The Tribune indirectly indicates that the public will pay money to have a look at Thompson. Indeed it will not. Thompson couldn't earn $10 a week on a vaudeville stage and the day is long past when any person can succeed on the stage with no other merit than notoriety. Nan Patterson and scores of others have attempted to exploit and capitalize newspaper fame, but each attempt has been a dismal failure. It is unfair and unjust to the intelligent American public to say that it will patronize a stage performer whose only claim to a place on the stage is based upon some escapade, creditable or otherwise.

Merely Twaddle.

Just as everybody predicted, Jones is paying the freight. Since the Standard Oil Company paid into the Texas treasury that half million dollar fine, gasoline has advanced 2 cents per gallon. A few days and the people will have the fine made up and then some and the end is not yet.—Ballinger Ledger.

And then another bunch of "shrewd" lawyers will get their heads together and institute another suit. But you will always notice that the oil companies continue to do business at the same old stand.—Bonham Favorite.

And it might also be added that the price of gasoline is steadily advancing. In Texas, the folks who are rejoicing that Attorney General Looney collected this sum from the oil people are waking up and paying it all back. Great world is this, anyway it is taken.—Brenham Banner.

As a matter of fact the Standard Oil Company has never sold a pint of gasoline in Texas and the Magnolia Petroleum Company, if it is argued that company is the Standard, sells far less than 25 per cent of the gasoline purchased in Texas. So what is the use of making rash statements. There are two very large and several small concerns making and selling gasoline in Texas which are not in any wise concerned in the Standard Oil Company, but are bitter and relentless competitors. If the people are paying more for gasoline now than heretofore it is not caused by the fine collected by the State. Time was when statements like those quoted would pass, but there is too much light on affairs of large corporations in this day and time to justify such errors.

Equal Rights.

A woman in Dallas shot her husband and his affinity and the grand jury "turned her loose," whereupon the Fort Worth Record remarks that "there was a time when man had a corner on the unwritten law. Today 'tis different. Now the automatic cemetery filler knows no sex." And, if we are to believe Kipling, "the female of the species is more deadly through a month of hot weather like than the male."

Modern Dancing.

Observing that there may be more than idle speculation in the theory, the Greenville Herald quotes the Medical Times' explanation of the modern dance. This theory is based upon historical and pathological grounds. In the middle ages an epidemic of dancing very much like the present one invaded Europe and dances said to be similar in some respects to the modern tango and others of the same kind were popular. These dances were attributed by later physiological historians to neurasthenia, with which most of the nations of Europe were supposed to be suffering at that time. Now it is thought that the rapid manner in which we have lived for the last hundred years or more has made neurasthenics of the greater part of the world's civilized people. We have all been imbued with the germ of progress and ambition has been stimulated in us to such a point that we are living too fast and worrying too much.

Ears as Well as Tongues.

The life of many an innocent woman has been wrecked just because one of these old pretentious sisters told another good sister on the quiet something about her she didn't know what she was talking about. And then to make the whole matter worse, grab this same woman in company, kiss her and take on over her just like she was an angel from heaven, and just as soon as her back is turned she goes what "hey" say about her. Such folks as that make us tired and the sooner people quit talking after them the better the world will be.—Lufkin News.

It all gets back to our original observation that there would be no tongues to wag gossip if there were no ears to listen.

The Great Tammany Plot at Albany.

Having deliberately broken down the state government through his servile creatures in the legislature, will Boss Murphy now be able to seize the governorship itself by impeaching Governor Sulzer and removing him from office? That seems to be the desperate plan which the master of Tammany Hall has in mind. Whatever the personal failings or picturesque temperamental infirmities of Mr. Sulzer may be, it is certain that the powers of his great office are now in the hands of the people. Boss Murphy intends to take those powers into his own hands if he can. No one will be deceived by the technical charges which the boss has been laboring so hard to work up, searching for vengeance with an army of private detectives and lawyers. The governor's real offense is that he has dared to represent the people rather than the boss, and that he has committed the unpardonable sin of advocating direct primaries.

The great Tammany conspiracy at Albany is not so much an attack on the governor as a carefully planned crime against the people. Mr. Sulzer is a mere incident. Boss Murphy is reaching out for the governorship itself and for control of the public treasury.

The forces of political corruption are now working savagely in anticipation of the investigation of widespread grafting in the Tammany-protected state departments which the governor has ordered.

GATHERS A. &amp; M. CROP.

Corn Yield of College Will Amount to 2,000 Bushels.
College Station, Aug. 28.—Work of gathering the corn crop on the A. & M. college farm began today and Farm Superintendent Holmes estimated that 2,000 bushels of corn will be gathered off of the 30-acre field planted to corn. Of that amount 1,000 bushels will be cribbed for work teams, and the remainder will be ground, shuck, cob and all, to be fed as a balanced ration with ensilage and cotton seed meal to the dairy herd.

It is no small job to grow enough feed for the livestock at the college. There are 204 head in herd in being and 300 head of work stock to feed. This year Mr. Holmes harvested 160 tons of oats to be fed in the sheep to the work stock, and made off of 85 acres of sorghum and June corn 400 tons of ensilage.

As farm superintendent, Mr. Holmes also has supervision of the dairy. On an average of 115 cows are milked during the nine months school term, the production being 230 gallons. Most of this milk goes to the mess hall and the rest to the college canteen, where it is made into butter. The pasture for the dairy is being sown in Bermuda grass and buff clover, affording pasturage practically all year. Under Mr. Holmes' management the dairy is proving a paying proposition.

A novel lamp shade is mounted on a frame like an umbrella so it can be closed to save room.

BIRTHS DOUBLE DEATHS IN TEXAS

MORE THAN FOUR THOUSAND BORN DURING MONTH OF JULY.

FORTY-FIVE SETS OF TWINS

Greatest Per Cent of Mortality Was of Children Under One Year. Tuberculosis Increases.

Austin, Aug. 28.—Births in Texas during July, more than doubled the deaths in the state for the corresponding length of time, according to figures announced today by R. P. Babcock, state registrar of vital statistics. Births totalled 4,514, while the death total was only 2,247 deaths. There were forty-five sets of twins born during the month. About six-eighths of the children born were negroes.

The greatest percentage of mortality was of children under one year of age. There were 509 deaths of children this age and 239 between one and five years of age. Between twenty and thirty years the second greatest number of deaths was recorded, this division claiming 253 deaths.

Tuberculosis as a cause of death took a decided jump this month over previous months and proved to be the cause of 212 deaths, the second largest number reported. Typhoid fever claimed about four per cent of the mortalities.

There was reported the death of a negro woman of Limestone county, 106 years old, and a negro woman from Lamar county 103 years old. Births, alive—White, 3,597; black, 321. Stillbirths—White, 113; black, 23; total 4,514.

The births are classified as follows: Males—White, 2,099; black, 175. Females—White, 1,559; black, 192. No sex given—White, 29; black, 14. Stillbirths—White, 113; black, 23. Twins, 45 sets as follows: Males, white, 17; females, 12; males and females, white, 15.

Of these ninety children, eighty were born alive and ten were stillborn.

CHARLTON AT NAPLES

AMERICAN TO STAND TRIAL BEFORE ITALIAN COURTS ARRIVES.

Weeps When Reads Details of Crime. Says Has Defense Prepared. Learning Language.

Naples, Aug. 28.—Porter Charlton, the American who must stand trial before the Italian courts for the murder of his wife, Mary Scott Castle Charlton, at Lake Como, three years ago, arrived at Naples today from the United States aboard the steamship Re D'Italia. He will be taken on to Genoa on the steamer arriving there Saturday and will be confined in the Genoa prison until September 2, when he will be transferred to Milan or Rome.

The Associated Press correspondent was allowed to see Charlton, who was sitting in his shirt sleeves, about to have supper with the carabinieri who guarded Charlton. Charlton exclaimed he was tired of seeing newspaper men. He added he had a comparatively good voyage and had spent most of his time studying the Italian language, as he was desirous of learning sufficient words to follow his own trial and at the same time had prepared his defense.

Charlton begged for some American papers describing his departure from New York. When he read the details of his crime he wept.

THAW PREFERS TO STAY INSIDE JAIL

POSSIBILITY OF GETTING HIM OUT ON BOND NOT CONSIDERED.

JEROME'S TRIP IS A FAILURE

Good to Quebec to See Sir Lomer Gouin, but Finds Him Gone.

Sherbrooke, Quebec, Aug. 28.—Harry K. Thaw's lawyers, successful so far in keeping the client in jail safe from the immigration authorities, rejoiced tonight when they received word from Quebec that the trip of Williams Travers Jerome to see Sir Lomer Gouin, provincial premier and attorney general, had been in vain.

Mr. Jerome, leader of the New York state forces seeking Thaw's return to Matteawan, accompanied by Deputy Attorney General Franklin Kennedy, left here last night hoping to lay before the premier facts that would persuade him to sweep aside the commitment on which Thaw is held in Sherbrooke and place him in the hands of the immigration authorities. Presumably, Mr. Jerome did not know that the premier was to leave Quebec for New York to join those paying tribute to Lord Haldane, who is to arrive there from England tomorrow.

Similarly, this fact was not known to Louis St. Laurent, engaged by the Thaw to defend "Gentleman Roger" Thompson, the chauffeur. Although concerning himself chiefly with the Thompson case, Mr. Laurent is a resident of Quebec, a liberal and a supporter of the premier and he was dispatched thither, it was understood, to use whatever influence he could bring to bear against the premier's taking any action in the Thaw case at this time. He will return here tomorrow to defend Thompson when the latter is arraigned before District Magistrate Mulvane on a charge of aiding an undesirable to cross the frontier. If Thompson can prove that he is a British subject, he cannot be deported, but he can be fined a maximum sum of $500 or imprisoned for three months.

Thompson said tonight he would plead not guilty and absolutely would not "squeal" as to the details of the delivery of Thaw from Matteawan.

It will doubtless be necessary for the prosecution to prove Thaw insane before they can establish that he is an undesirable alien, and thus sustain the charges against Thompson. If this is the case, the Thompson trial may go over until all the details of the Stamford White's slayer.

There was renewed talk today of the possibility of Thaw's being admitted to bail pending the long wait for trial before the king's bench in October, the length of time it now appears he will be held.

One of Thaw's counsel said tonight that Thaw's admission to bail he would regard as an extremely unwise move.

"In my opinion," he said, "the immigration authorities could then take him in charge and although they could not deport him, in view of his being bound by a bond to appear in court, they might be able to embarrass us. For the present, Mr. Thaw will remain in jail; perhaps later we will hit on a way to get him out in safety."

More of Thaw's Canadian counsel called on him today.

On the whole, it was for him the most uneventful day of his incarceration here.

To Prevent Jail Delivery.
Quebec, Aug. 28.—Though William Travers Jerome and Deputy Attorney General Franklin Kennedy of New York, today could not see Sir Lomer Gouin, absent in New York, in their efforts to obtain the deportation of Harry Thaw, the attorneys obtained a promise from Deputy Attorney General Lanctot of the province of Quebec.

BERLIN CRITICIZES POLICY

Press Says Wilson's Message is but a Paving of the Way for Intervention.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—The evening papers here paid little attention today to President Wilson's message on the Mexican situation.

The Tagliche Rundschau, in a leading article entitled, "Wilson Tries His Pretext Hand," says:

"President Wilson, by his mistaken insistence on the non-recognition of provisional President Huerta has made himself responsible for the present situation. President Wilson's assurances of sincere and unselfish sympathy toward Mexico are in sharp contrast with the American government's policy."

The Deutsche Tageszeitung feels that President Wilson's message "throws no clearer light on his future policy," but interprets his instructions to American citizens to leave Mexico and his threat that America will hold Mexico responsible for their lives and property as paving the way for a "later pretext for intervention."

Praises Intentions.
Paris, Aug. 28.—Baron Robert de Caix, former editor of the Journal des Debats, in an article today, praises the excellent intentions of President Wilson, but declares that in this case the purest intentions have made of the Mexican crisis only a disquieting emergency.

"In plain language," he says, "President Wilson asks the Mexican government to sign its own death warrant and President Huerta to decapitate himself. Mexico only prospered under a dictatorship and the best method really to help toward its welfare would be to assist General Huerta, who is master of eighteen out of the twenty-seven Mexican states, to secure control of the rest."

London Not Sanguine.
London, Aug. 28.—The London morning papers continue to find little reason for encouragement in the situation between Mexico and the United States and express the strongest doubt as to the wisdom of President Wilson's policy, mainly on the ground that Mexico is not yet fitted for democratic government.

The Daily Telegraph fails to see how even the acceptance of Mr. Wilson's conditions by General Huerta would bring about peace and security in Mexico and contends that, whether wise or unwise, the refusal of the United States to recognize the Huerta administration has created an unfortunate situation.

Referring to former Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson's advocacy of recognition and the fact that the Mexican congress, although it was "made" by Madero, nevertheless acquiesced in Huerta's government, the Telegraph says that it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the American antagonism to Huerta is due to the belief that he is a confirmed enemy to American interests, while Madero always proclaimed himself a champion of those interests.

The Daily Graphic says that President Wilson's policy is interesting as an idealist's experiment in international politics, but carried out logically and consistently must end in intervention.

AMERICANS NEED WARNING

from 50 cents to $2 a kilo, and eggs from 5 cents to 20 cents each.

The only Americans remaining at Madera, it was reported, are C. H. Cooper, D. P. Barnum, Lew Williams, F. C. Herr, Hicks, Gleason, Caruthers and Schmidt and two or three others whose names were not known. Those who left Madera are expected to arrive at El Paso in a day or two.

Warning Creates Consternation.

Mexico City, Aug. 28.—American residents in the capital are at a loss to know how to interpret the peremptory warning issued by President Wilson to leave the republic. Somewhat reassured by the declaration that armed intervention is not intended they are now wondering whether there is a hidden meaning back of the latest warning.

The American consulate general was crowded throughout the day by Americans of all classes, seeking detailed information. The consul general, Arnold Shanklin, was unable to give any advice other than that based upon instructions from the state department to send to all consuls in his district a message, to the effect that they should advise all Americans in their territory to leave Mexico at once, going to the nearest seaport where ships would be in readiness to take them off.

Most of the Americans who called at the consulate are planning to register their property and obey the Washington injunction. A few are availing themselves of the fund appropriated for the refugees; a great many put the cost of transportation in a secondary place.

The great majority of those who have been able to arrange their affairs have already departed from the capital, and some from other places. Many of those who remain have interests leave behind which would mean the sacrifice of their only means of livelihood.

The warning has created something like consternation on the part of many Americans. It undoubtedly, however, will result in a new exodus, and a general determination is to abandon everything they possess in the belief that their lives are endangered, but in exactly what way they are unable to determine.

Doubtful Elections.
Matamoros, Mex., Aug. 28.—General Blanco, constitutionalist commander here, asked today what his party thought of President Wilson's Mexican message, replied with another question.

"How can an election be promised when so many thousands who should vote are out in the field, gun in hand?"

He declined to comment further, except to add that the situation is practically unchanged and that given arms, the constitutionalists would restore peace in two months.

Aided Aviator.
El Paso, Tex., Aug. 28.—Manuel Beuche Alcade, a Mexican constitutionalist officer, was arrested here today on a charge of aiding Didier Masson, the French aviator, to smuggle his aeroplane from Los Angeles to the rebel camps in Sonora last May.

Alcade will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow. He is a brother of Captain Joaquin Beuche Alcade, the Mexican aviator who has been assisting Masson in his flights over the federal positions around Guaymas.

The first encounter between constitutionalists and federals in the movement of Carranza's combined force in Chihuahua took place three days ago at San Andres, fifty miles from Chihuahua, according to Colonel Baca, of Carranza's staff, who arrived here today. General Francisco Villa commanded the anti-government forces and the federals were commanded by General Felix Terrazas and General Marcelino Carraveo. Casa said he had not learned the outcome of the engagement.

Constitutionalist Committee.
Los Angeles, Aug. 28.—A constitutionalist committee, headed by an agent of the Mexican insurgents, will be established in Los Angeles. Robert Posquiera was here today with that purpose in view.

Posquiera, since the beginning of the Sonora revolt, has been business representative of the insurgents on the Arizona border with Douglas as his headquarters.

Two Mexicans are being considered for the position here. One is Eduardo F. Hay, hero of the battle of Casas Grandes, and now insurgent envoy to Washington.

Raoul Madero, brother of the late president, also is being talked of for

Rebels Destroy Print Factory.
Laredo, Aug. 28.—Rebels Friday destroyed the La Bella Union Cotton Print factory, ten miles from Saltillo, entailing a loss of one million pesos and throwing 400 workmen out of employment, according to advices reaching here today. Juan Buniz was the leader of the band which first demanded 300,000 pesos, then 10,000, and when this was not forthcoming set fire to the factory. It is reported that many of the workmen were compelled to join the band to save their lives, and other depredations are ascribed to them.

William Purcell, an English banker, is said to be the heaviest loser in the destruction of the factory.

3,500 Perish at Torreon.
Laredo, Tex., Aug. 28.—Thirty-five hundred men perished in the seven constitutionalist attacks on Torreon, between July 17 and July 28, and since that time fever has become epidemic through the valley. It was predicted that few would reach the city.

This news was brought today by travelers from Saltillo and the vicinity of Torreon, who received information by courier last Monday. Not more than twenty-five Americans remain in the city and all are reported safe.

The constitutionalists are reported to have lost 3,000 men, most of them in a disastrous attempt to flood the city by diverting the course of the Nacozos river from its head gates through the valley. They were caught in a cross fire from the federal machine guns. They later withdrew to Durango. The federal loss was about 400.

No Response in Sonora.
Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 28.—Although Sonora was flooded with consular notifications of President Wilson's recommendation for Americans to leave Mexico, there was no apparent response today. It was predicted that few women and children would leave the country, but nearly all the men engaged in mining, declared they would remain at their work. Today's departing train into the Nacozos mining district carried more passengers southward than on any previous day this month.

U. S. NOT RESPONSIBLE.
Monroe Doctrine Does Not Specify Protection for Foreigners.
Washington, Aug. 28.—While the Monroe doctrine does not specify a duty on the part of the United States to exercise police power in the western hemisphere in behalf of foreigners generally, President Wilson let it be known today that this country as the nearest neighbor to the southern republic, would render every assistance possible to distressed foreigners there.

It is expected here that the governments of the world will continue through their diplomatic representatives to insist on protection to their interests, but should any emergency arise, consuls of the United States will afford foreigners the same assistance given to Americans.

Much discussion has been manifest in official circles recently on the duties devolving upon this country as outlined in the Monroe doctrine. Incidentally, somebody left a volume of early presidential messages on President Wilson's desk today, with the Monroe doctrine marked. The president smilingly told his friends he did not know who did it, but he read the Monroe message, nevertheless, to refresh his mind.

Diaz at London.
London, Aug. 28.—General Felix Diaz, who recently left Mexico City, as special ambassador on a mission to Japan, is at a London hotel with his family. He declined tonight to make any comment on President Wilson's message or on the Mexican situation.

Division of Lands.
Matamoros, Aug. 28.—Division of lands confiscated by the constitutionalists will begin August 30, with Los Borregos, a ranch formerly owned by Felix Diaz, nephew of the ex-president and special envoy to Japan. The land will be partitioned according to the agrarian plan of San Luis Potosi, to insure cultivation and thus give poorer classes to become home owners.

Hold Up Arms.
New Orleans, Aug. 28.—One thousand carbines and 250,000 rounds of ammunition held at Meridian, Miss., were recently released by the United States government for shipment to the Mexican government, were again held up by a special agent of the department of justice today. This consignment has been in a warehouse at Meridian for several months and the Mexican consul here under a special permit, was preparing to ship it to Vera Cruz.

McKercher Resigns.
Washington, Aug. 28.—Clark McKercher, special assistant attorney general who conducted the government's prosecution of the lumber trust, the cotton pool case and many others of the most important anti-trust cases, resigned today to enter private practice as counsel for several corporations of New York.

Gaynor for Justice.
New York, Aug. 28.—It was unofficially announced here today that Mayor William Gaynor's name may be presented to the conference convention of the progressive party in Rochester, September 26, as a candidate for chief justice of the court of appeals. This is understood to be a move to eliminate the mayor as a factor in the mayoralty race.

WHY HAS TEXAS PENITENTIARY COMMISSION PLAYED INTO THE HANDS OF THE SUGAR TRUST?

Legislative Investigating Committee Puts Probe Into Sales of State's Raw Sugar. W. T. Eldridge, Manager Imperial Sugar Company, Tells How Texas Refinery Was Discriminated Against.

WHILE the sugar trust is spending vast sums in buying a richly paid lobby at Washington, and while it is flooding the nation with its literature under the franks of congressmen, it is at the same time carrying on its fight to destroy the sugar industry of Texas.

Texas has a sugar refinery that is not in the trust.

It is the Cunningham refinery, operated by the Imperial Sugar Company at Sugar Land, Texas.

This refinery, located in the heart of the Texas cane growing country and surrounded on several sides by the state's vast cane fields of the penitentiary system, has been made the victim of a practical boycott by the Colquitt administration penitentiary commissioners, and the Texas penitentiary-grown sugar has been, ever since the beginning of the Colquitt administration, marketed in the interest of the sugar trust.

This condition, says Mr. W. T. Eldridge, manager of the Imperial Sugar Company, is the latest serial chapter in a 20-year fight made by the sugar trust against the Texas refinery, and he has placed a statement of facts and a series of letters and evidence before the penitentiary committee of the legislature that has caused that body to issue a peremptory demand that all records for sales of sugar, molasses and blackstrap made by the penitentiary commissioners since their induction into office be turned over to the committee, together with all figures, facts and correspondence relating to these sales.

Texas Wants to Know Why

The probe has already been inserted and the people of Texas may now find out:

Why the commissioners refused the full market price for the first sugar they had to sell after they got into office?

Why they refused to sell above the highest market price?

Why the blackstrap molasses of the penitentiary system was sold for from 3 to 4 1-4 cents to New Orleans interests when an offer of 5 cents from Texas had been ignored?

Why quotations on sugar were refused to brokers inquiring for the Texas refinery?

Why the 20,000,000 pounds of sugar of the last crop on hand was not sold to the highest bidder as per the commissioners' statements, and why no public announcements of bids for it have been made?

Why the state has incurred unnecessary extra charges for weighing, brokerage and loss of weight in long shipments in order to sell sugar and blackstrap in New Orleans for a lower price than could have been had where it was raised?

Why the Texas sugar crops have been sold at a price on an average of at least less than 35 cents per 100 pounds than the Imperial Sugar Company would have paid for them?

The State's Sugar Crop

In the letter to Hon. W. H. Mayes, chairman of the penitentiary investigating committee, Mr. Eldridge outlined the experience of the Imperial Sugar Company in its attempt to purchase the state's output of raw sugar, and accompanied the letter with a file of correspondence to substantiate his claims. The statement and correspondence shows that when the penitentiary commissioners had their first sugar ready for market, Mr. Eldridge offered them the full market price at New Orleans quotations. They did not sell to him at this price. Neither did they give him another opportunity to bid on it, and they finally sold for a price unknown.

When the second crop was ready, he wrote them that he was very anxious to buy the sugar that time, and offered to pay more than they could get offered from any other source. It was an unusual situation when a purchaser at the gate offered to pay more than the highest quotations.

A Bid Above the Market

Mr. Eldridge wrote, under the date of October 14, 1911, to Mr. Louis W. Tittle, prison commissioner of the Texas state penitentiaries, saying in part: "I do wish to have you secure the very best prices you can get quoted elsewhere, and then tell me what you will take for your sugar."

"I am taking this position because of my recent experience in making you a bid that was certainly in line with the market at that time, and was even better, all things considered, than I thought any one else could have quoted you, but the result of this was that we were up against a competition that we were at a loss to understand, and we do not wish to lose your sugar in this instance, and we also feel that by this means you should be able to get for the sugar belonging to the state a slightly better price than you could by any other method."

"I feel that we would be justified in paying you just as much if not a little more than any one else by reason of our location, and for this reason I feel confident we can agree upon a satisfactory price."

"I feel certain that you will agree with me when I say, as Texas citizens, we should at least have an even break with outside parties, and in selling sugar to us you escape the commission which you have to pay if you sell in New Orleans, and the heavy shrinkage on your sugar while en route to that distant point, which experience has taught us is very costly, and unless definite arrangements are made to the contrary you will also have to pay a weighing charge in New Orleans, and when these and some additional trimmings are taken into consideration you could really afford to sell to us at a much lower figure than you can to any refinery that I know of located in Louisiana. I have been up against these conditions so often that I know very well what I am talking about from actual experience."

Notwithstanding all this, I have expressed myself to you as plainly as possible to the effect that I am not asking an even break with my competitors—I believe that we can do a little better than this by you, and that as soon as you have received the best price you can get from outsiders and will then take this into consideration and advise me just what it will take to get your sugar, I feel certain we can come to an agreement.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) "W. T. ELDRIDGE, President."

The commissioners did not see fit to follow the proposal made in the above letter.

No Quotations to Independents

At the same time, through the A. H. Lamborn Company of New Orleans, the largest independent sugar brokers in the United States, who did not reveal the name of their customer, attempts were made to secure this sugar by Mr. Eldridge. Two communications from the A. H. Lamborn Company to the prison commission failed to get an offer or even a reply.

Under date of December 4, 1911, the Lamborn Company wrote to the Cunningham Sugar Company as follows:

"Replying to your favor of the 2nd inst., relative to correspondence between this office and Mr. Louis W. Tittle, prison commissioner, Huntsville, Texas, upon your suggestion we wrote these people October 14 and again October 26 calling attention to the fact that he had never replied to our letter, and are absolutely without reply to either of these communications."

Evidently the state was not concerned with getting as many competitors as possible in the market to secure their sugar crop.

Who Was Highest Bidder

On October 20, 1912, the state announced that it had 20,000,000 pounds of raw sugar to sell to the highest bidder, and on this account the Imperial company made no special effort to buy direct, proposing to bid against competitors, but when or how or under what circumstances these bids are to be made has not been divulged and if the state has sold a pound to the highest bidder, the Imperial company has not heard of it.

A Sacrifice in Blackstrap

Following the attempt to buy the second crop of raw sugar from the state, the Imperial company made an attempt to secure the supply of blackstrap molasses. Feeling that it seemed to prejudice their cause for the state to know who was the bidder, the Imperial company had a third party make an offer of 5 cents a gallon for the blackstrap. The agent was instructed at the same time: "If 5 cents won't buy it, ask them what they will take for it." To this agent the state quoted no price at all, but the molasses was sold to New Orleans interests for a price ranging from 3 to 4 1-4 cents.

The state thus robbed itself of this difference in price in order to sell in New Orleans rather than in Texas.

Recently when the state agent again had blackstrap molasses to sell, the Imperial company, profiting by their former experience, declined to make an offer and insisted that the state make a price. The price was fixed at 7 cents and the Imperial company promptly bought the blackstrap, and it would have bought the former output of blackstrap at 7 cents if the state had offered it at that price.

Figures Are Called For

It is these transactions that have caused the penitentiary committee of the legislature to call on the commissioners to show how much sugar and molasses they have sold since they have been in office and what offers they received on it and what prices they got for it.

Mr. Eldridge, the vice-president of the Imperial company makes the statement that he would have paid the state at least 35 cents per hundred pounds more than they received from New Orleans if he had been given proper opportunity to do so.

Under the present commissioners the penitentiary debt has vastly increased, and it is thought that it is owing to just such methods of management that the debt has so vastly mounted up. As all of the debts must be paid by the taxpayers, every taxpayer has a definite and direct interest in the state's getting the highest possible price for its output of cane sugar and blackstrap, as well as all other crops.

Sugar Trust Methods

For 20 years the sugar trust has been waging a fight, brutal and callous in its methods and at times threateningly dangerous in its results against sugar refining in Texas by independent companies.

Texas has but one sugar refinery, that known as the Cunningham refinery at Sugar Land, owned and operated by the Imperial Sugar Company, of which W. T. Eldridge is vice-president and general manager.

The plan of the sugar trust, as outlined by Mr. H. O. Havemeyer, the president, himself, has always been amazingly simple. Wherever competition springs up the trust sells sugar in that locality or in the locality where the independent concern is seeking its customers at a price lower than the cost of production, lower than the sugar trust itself can produce it and lower than the independent company can make its sugar. The markets of that territory in which the war is being waged are flooded with sugar sufficiently cheap to destroy successful competition.

When the competitor is destroyed the prices jump and the consumer is then without the only thing that could lower them, competition. It has been the constant aim of the sugar trust to create a monopoly market, and it has done this by dumping cheap sugar into territory where competition threatened.

Fight 20 Years Old

That this method was successfully employed against the Sugar Land refinery 20 years ago when the fight started is attested by the following letter written by Mr. Havemeyer, who up to the time of his death was the head of the sugar trust, to Mr. Robert Oxnard, president of the Western Sugar Refining Company of San Francisco, the Pacific coast tentacle of the trust.

The letter is dated from New York, April 25, 1892, and is reported on page 1589, volume 3, of the report of the case of the United States against the American Sugar Refining Company et al, issued about a year ago by the federal government.

The letter reads:

"New York, April 25, 1892.—To Mr. Robert Oxnard, President Western Sugar Refining Company, San Francisco: Yours of April 15 is received. The Sugar Land refinery has been driven out of the state of Texas by us, which means that our price for granulated to the consumer is cheaper than he could supply it. He now seeks his market in the Missouri River territory, which is yours. I think it is good policy for you to sell what sugar you have to market east of California in that territory. As long as you do that there is no need of regarding him. If you can not, you will have to lower your price to meet his competitor.

(Signed) "H. O. Havemeyer."

As Texas, the natural market of the Sugar Land refinery, had been flooded by the eastern branch of the sugar trust, so its new territory, the Missouri River region, was now to be flooded by the western branch until competition was destroyed.

Colonel Cunningham, then in charge of the refinery, had to close it down.

Eastwick Takes Up Cudgel

Two years later he reopened his refinery and took up the fight again. George S. Eastwick, general manager of the American Sugar Refining Company, in a letter to Oxnard, which was printed in full in last Sunday's Chronicle, reveals the division of territory observed by the branches of the trust and again eggs on Oxnard to push the fight against the Texas refinery by the old methods, saying:

"I want to call your attention to the fact which may not have been reported to you by your brokers, that Cunningham at Sugar Land, Texas, is turning out 500 barrels daily, which he has been and is now disposing of principally in Kansas, Missouri River and Colorado points.

"The Henderson refinery of this city is also marketing about 450 barrels per day and is disposing of a considerable portion of its product in these markets, which are, therefore, receiving a steady supply of sugar from the two sources mentioned above. Every pound of sugar which the Cunningham and Henderson people place in these markets is a loss to you—and a gain to them.

(Signed) "Geo. S. Eastwick, General Manager American Sugar Refining Company."

Reported on page 1653, Volume 3, of the reports on testimony named above.

Oxnard Enters Texas Field

Mr. Oxnard on September 3, 1903, decided to enter the Texas market and sought permission from Mr. Havemeyer to do this so as not to violate the territorial agreement. In his letter to Mr. Havemeyer he says:

"We are now offering our California sugars at all Missouri River points, interior Iowa and Kansas and territories and the Northwest. It now becomes necessary in order to sell sugar as fast as we can make it to enter the next best market, which you will see from the enclosed list is Texas. We should like to have at Texas points the benefits of the services of the brokers of the New Orleans refinery. Is it your desire that I shall arrange this by correspondence with Witherspoon direct or through yourself? If the latter, will you kindly act for us at once in the matter. Otherwise, please wire me that I can go ahead.

"I do not like to trouble you unnecessarily in our matters, but I thought it unwise to begin offering in the Texas territory until the way has been prepared so that it could be done without friction with Witherspoon and consequent demoralization.

(Signed)

"Robt. Oxnard."

Morey's "Arbitrary Prices"

In a letter from Denver on November 5, 1907, C. S. Morey in a report to Mr. Havemeyer recommending arbitrary prices that would be sure to catch the business in the Missouri River territory, where the competition of the Texas refinery was felt, wrote:

"I would further recommend that we make an arbitrary price on the Missouri River and other markets for our product, disregarding any differential or what the cane price may be. This price should be low enough to throw 90 per cent of the business to beet sugar, and should start low enough so there would be no danger of a decline, so that jobbers would feel safe in making purchases. Of course, other beet producers would follow our prices, I would only expect our proportion of the business."

By this plan western beet sugar was to supplant Texas cane sugar entirely in the territory where it had the best market.

Witherspoon Manipulates Texas

Texas markets were manipulated through the Witherspoon agency of New Orleans, the sugar trust representative there. In the New Orleans Picayune of December 5, 1912, appeared the following testimony when the sugar trust was under investigation:

"Mr. John S. Seymore, a sugar broker doing business since the year 1889, said that through his own solicitation he has been employed as a broker by the American Sugar Refinery and sold sugars for the firm in the year 1891 and 1892. His trading was principally in the state of Texas and other western states.

"At the time did you receive any instructions from Mr. Witherspoon regarding prices at any particular points?" was asked of the witness.

"Yes, sir; Mr. Witherspoon made all the prices."

"Did you receive any instructions in reference to selling in competition to Cunningham?"

"Yes; my instructions were to sell in Texas prepaid freight at lower prices than sold f. o. b. New Orleans. In other words, under Cunningham prices and much lower than the refinery was selling elsewhere. I do not recall how long this condition lasted."

Cutting Prices in Texas

It is against competition of this kind that the Texas refinery has made its fight for existence. While the price is hoisted elsewhere it is lowered for Texas. As late as November 21, 1911, the brokerage firm of Thos. S. Witherspoon sent the following circular to all Texas jobbers and to the jobbers of no other state:

"To Texas Jobbers Only.—The American Sugar Refining Company is now shading its list price for standard granulated in barrels and 100-pound sacks only (absolutely no other grade and absolutely no other packages) 10 points to basis 6 cents New Orleans, or 6.46, less 2 per cent, freight prepaid Texas common points."

To further effect this aim of destroying Texas competition the trust gives Texas orders priority of consideration in filling.

The following is taken from a circular of Mr. Thos. S. Witherspoon, broker for the American Sugar Refining Company at New Orleans, dated New Orleans, La., June 17, 1913:

"Special to Texas Jobbers.—Please understand that, notwithstanding how far back the refinery may get their deliveries, my usual arrangement still holds good allowing me to ship your Texas orders within one or two days from date of receipt."

Sins of the Sugar Trust

This giant monstrosity, the sugar trust, whose representative, Mr. Oxnard, a few days ago told the senate lobby investigating committee at Washington he had spent $640,000 in an attempt to influence federal tariff legislation, is the same trust that stole $10,000,000 from the federal government in customs duties by a system of fraudulent weights, and it is the same trust that New York is suing for $625,000 for stealing water from the people through a system of tapping the city water mains behind the meter.

It boasts that it controls 90 per cent of the output of refined sugar in the United States and dictates the prices of both raw and refined sugars. Its capital is $90,000,000. Its surplus is over $30,000,000. Its tentacles stretch over the entire country. It has in the past shown itself ready to take every conceivable advantage and balks at little or nothing in order to destroy competition. It has sought to destroy the reputation for quality of all Texas sugar with the retailer and consumer by marketing an inferior grade of sugar in Texas, which it invoices as "Tex-Sugar" and labels as fine granulated, when it really falls short of that standard in actual test and use, and the resulting dissatisfaction makes the consumer avoid Texas refined sugar.

In places where it competes with the Texas refinery it has made a difference of 20 cents per hundred between the price of cane and beet sugar, so as to force the cane sugar out of the market, and it has in all things been the prize buccaneer of the trusts, pursuing its piratical

TEXAS REFINERY'S TWENTY YEAR FIGHT

Arrogant sugar octopus squeezed down prices to kill competition, then boosted them at will. How the trust divided the territory. Why Texas consumers are interested in fight to control raw sugar. A study in methods of manipulation and their results.

methods in trade and at the same time seeking to soothe the legislative ear and to blind the custom official's eye.

The Texas Refinery

Over against this sugar trust as its only Texas competitor is the Cunningham Refinery, operated by the Imperial Sugar Company. When, a few years ago, Mr. Eldridge took over this refinery and re-entered the field against the trust as the Cunningham Sugar Company, the refinery had a capacity of only 400 barrels per day, while the average consumption in Texas of sugar is 3500 barrels a day. Up to June 17 of this year, 1913, the plant was only turning out 800 barrels a day. It is now turning out 1,200 barrels a day, or more than a third enough sugar to supply all Texas, and is thus a formidable competitor to the trust. The Imperial Sugar Company has over 1000 employees and the monthly payroll for its various industries is over $25,000.

In its various enterprises it has an investment of $3,000,000.

It asks to compete on fair terms with the sugar trust in buying the cane and raw sugars raised by the state of Texas. Simply by staying in business it saves $500,000 to the citizens of Texas each year in reduced prices on sugar.

The penitentiary system loses money by dealing with these alien foreign interests represented by the trust.

Value of Competition

If the sugar trust ever definitely puts the Imperial Sugar Company out of business, it will be in position to buy the state's crop of raw sugar at its own price. The price that it would offer without competition would be one that would destroy the sugar industry in Texas down to the roots of the cane in the fields.

In buying imported raws the Imperial Company is at a disadvantage in freight rates and so any sinister arrangement by which the Texas crop of raws is taken from under the eaves of the Texas refinery works a double disadvantage.

Because the Imperial Company enjoys a slight differential on refined sugars in certain territories and by its policy of scattering its distribution through Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, it has been enabled to stay in the game of sugar refining.

If it concentrated its trade on Texas alone the trust would immediately cut the price in Texas down to the quick, until the competition vanished and would then boost the price to the skies to make up what it had lost, but even the trust, as powerful as it is, can not afford to keep the fight up in six states by selling below a living profit.

Lower Prices on Every Pound

The Imperial Sugar Company could not supply the entire demand of Texas at present with its capacity, if it had a monopoly of the market, but its competition is important enough to lower the price on every pound of refined sugar sold in Texas, no matter by whom sold.

The average person eats 79 pounds of sugar a year and this sugar must be bought. The existence of the company saves every consumer at the rate of 10 cents a hundred pounds on every pound of sugar he buys or eats.

Certainly, then, it is to the interest of the citizen and the voter to see that the Texas penitentiary commission does not deliver the sugar industry of the state, bound hand and foot, into the control of the trusts.

Other things being equal and prices being equal, the sugar should be sold and refined in Texas.

The Imperial Sugar Company only asks the privilege of being allowed to buy the state sugar even above the market price.

This is not only a fight between corporations, but a fight in which every citizen of Texas is interested, financially and politically.

Boston, Aug. 28.—Walter Johnson's second attempt of the present season to get up a new pitcher's record for successive victories failed today when Boston won an eleven-inning contest from Washington 1 to 0. For ten innings Johnson had disposed of Boston batsmen in a procession that was monotonous. In the eleventh Wagner's infield hit resulted in Yerkes being put out, but not until Wagner had reached second. Carrigan, at bat, met the fourth ball pitched for a clean hit between the left and center fielders and Wagner raced home.

Up to today the league's leading pitcher had twirled Washington to fourteen victories without a defeat. This stands as the American league record for this season, but is two games short of the mark set last season by Johnson and Wood, the latter of Boston.

Today's game was a remarkable exhibition of Johnson's pitching skill. In the eleven innings only 35 men faced him and but four of these reached first base. Only one man got to first base in the first nine innings. Ten Boston batsmen struck out and Johnson did not allow a base on balls.

Louisville didn't like the looks of Ross Helms, hence he is yet in Skipper uniform, for which thanks awfully to Louisville. Looks must have been solely by the thing the Kentuckians objected to for they gave him no chance to show what else he had.

By accident those same judges from the state of colonies and mint Julep could have seen the big fellow yesterday. They would have sought method of inflicting a good kicking upon themselves.

Ross had everything, with the possible exception at times of perfect control, and he toyed with the homeless batsmen in a procession that was monotonous. In the eleventh Wagner's infield hit resulted in Yerkes being put out, but not until Wagner had reached second.

Up to today the league's leading pitcher had twirled Washington to fourteen victories without a defeat. This stands as the American league record for this season, but is two games short of the mark set last season by Johnson and Wood, the latter of Boston.

Today's game was a remarkable exhibition of Johnson's pitching skill. In the eleven innings only 35 men faced him and but four of these reached first base. Only one man got to first base in the first nine innings. Ten Boston batsmen struck out and Johnson did not allow a base on balls.

New York, Aug. 28.—The New York Yacht club tonight made public the conditions agreed upon between it and the Royal Ulster Yacht club, representing Sir Thomas Lipton, to govern the races that are to be sailed in September of next year, between an American defender and Sir Thomas as Marquard IV. No statement was made as to the probable dimensions of the defending craft, and G. A. Cormack, secretary of the New York Yacht club, said the measurements of the two vessels are not likely to be announced until next summer. Much earlier indications as to whether the defending club intends to meet the challenger with a 75 footer—the size Sir Thomas has stipulated his own craft shall be—are expected, however.

The rules as announced do not differ materially from those under which the last races for the America's cup were sailed.

Starting Thursday, September 10, 1914, the races will be sailed on Thursdays, Saturdays and Tuesdays until a winner of the cup is determined.

Should the Shamrock IV, the challenger, be detained by weather or other cause from reaching here in time, she will be given time for fitting out after her arrival, but the first race must, under the rules, be started not later than September 17. The first race will be thirty miles to windward, the second over an equilateral triangle and the third similar to the first. If the fourth and fifth races are necessary to determine the winner, they are to be sailed respectively as were the second and third of the last series.

Birthday Party.
Charming invitations, embossed in golden horse shoes, sent out the first of the week, brought together about half a hundred friends of Miss Luedie Doughty on Wednesday afternoon to celebrate the occasion of her first "teen" birthday.

The little hostess, assisted by her mother, received her guests in the library where a large table held the many pretty gifts sent by admiring friends.

The lawn was set with tables for games such as speeding peanuts and "shell-gall" and later romping games of "drop-the-handkerchief" and "wink" kept the merry crowd employed.

Cutting the birthday cake was the climax of the evening.

Miss Franke Entertains.
Miss Rebecca Franke chose an enjoyable form of entertainment when she gave a spend-the-day party to some twenty-five of her young friends on Wednesday at Fairview, the beautiful suburban home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Newbold.

The Newbold family have as their house guests for the week Mrs. Ed Wickes, Misses Edna and Annie Lida Wickes, Messrs. John and Henry Wickes of Bryan, and Mrs. W. H. Baldwin and little daughters, Katherine and Elizabeth, of Brady, Texas, and it was in compliment to the younger members of this house party that the enjoyable occasion was planned.

DEDICATION OF PALACE OF PEACE AT THE HAGUE IS WORLD EVENT

Distinguished Gathering of Royalty and Diplomatic Representatives See Costly Building Handed Over to Dutch Foreign Minister.

The Hague, Aug. 28.—The Palace of Peace was dedicated here this afternoon. The ceremony of handing the edifice over to the Dutch foreign minister was carried out in the great court in the presence of Queen Wilhelmina, Dowager Queen Emma and Prince Consort Henry. They were surrounded by a distinguished gathering of diplomatic representatives of peace societies and people prominent in the arts of sciences.

Abraham Van Karnebeck, president of the Carnegie Foundation, with a brief speech, handed the palace into the care of its appointed custodians. He eulogized the interests shown in the peace movement by the queen and emphasized the significance of the inauguration of the palace, expressing particularly thanks for the generosity of Andrew Carnegie.

Jonkheer Renee Van Swinderen, the retiring Dutch minister for foreign affairs, then accepted the custody of the building on behalf of the diplomatic corps in which it is vested under the presidency of the Dutch foreign minister. He referred to the opening of the palace as "an important page which has been added to the history of arbitration." He paid tributes to the late Melville W. Fuller, former chief justice of the United States supreme court; to Nicholas Maraveloff, former Russian minister of justice; Auguste Bernart, former Belgian minister of state; to T. M. McAsser, former Dutch minister and councillor of state, and to others now dead who had adorned the court of arbitration. He followed with a few sentences in French eulogizing Andrew Carnegie "who has placed the fruits of his strenuous labors at the service of humanity." Then turning to Mr. Carnegie, who was standing beside him, and speaking in English, he said:

"Mr. Carnegie, there is no doubt I should think that you are the happiest man among us, seeing in these surroundings the transformation of your beautifully, high spirited munificence into this future seat of international justice. In the name of the civilized powers of the world, I address you. The whole world shares your views and has proved its deep appreciation of your generosity by voting with imposing unanimity the funds necessary to up to this time always the very high standard to which you enabled its constructors to raise it."

Not Eternal Peace.
Reverting into French, the foreign minister, holding in his hand the key of the palace, continued:

"Will the edifice live up to its high sounding name? No doubt if that name is taken to imply that its bell will shortly ring the inauguration of 'eternal peace'—two words which are always out of place except when they are inscribed over the entrance gate of a cemetery. Yes, if expectations don't attempt a flight beyond the borders of what is humanly possible of realization."

The Palace of Peace is a laboratory for the regeneration of moral forces. Although the principle of arbitration has been accepted by ever expanding ideas, the memorable words uttered by the American statesman, Elihu Root, at the laying of the foundation stone of the Pan-American building at Washington remains the true maxim of all arbitration treaties—the matters in dispute between nations are nothing; the spirit which deals with them is everything.

"All controversies can be settled from the moment that the two contending parties desire a settlement. Diplomacy can greet the inauguration of this temple with head held high and a heart full of hope."

Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie were both presented to Queen Wilhelmina, who decorated Mr. Carnegie with the grand cross of the order of Orange Nassau. Other Americans present at the ceremony included Lloyd Bryce, American minister to the Netherlands; Oscar Straus and Mr. David Jayne Hill, former American ambassador at Berlin.

The speeches at the ceremony were interspersed with music and throughout the inauguration the church bells of the vicinity were rung. Considerable feeling has been displayed over the strict limitation of invitations to the dedication; but the great hall will accommodate only about 350 persons and as the custody of the building is vested in the diplomatic corps of the Dutch officials came first and monopolized all available room.

A garden party and reception has been arranged for tomorrow to which 2,000 invitations have been extended. At this reception the British minister will unveil the statue of Sir Randall Cremer, the great peace advocate.

Palace of Peace.
The building of peace which was dedicated with impressive ceremonies today is the gift of Andrew Carnegie, who, in 1903, placed at the disposal of the Dutch government the sum of $1,500,000 for the purpose, as expressed in his offer, of erecting and maintaining at The Hague a court house and library for the permanent court of arbitration established by the treaty of the 20th of July, 1899.

To provide a site for the first structure ever erected for such a purpose, the Dutch government appropriated $257,000. The site selected is in a section of wooded and hilly park stretching from The Hague to Scheveningen, and the cornerstone was laid July 30, 1907.

A world-wide competition for plans and designs for the peace palace was established and the first prize was awarded to M. Cordoniere, a Brussels architect. The building as completed, however, does not represent the original plans, the Carnegie committee having reserved the right to modify all designs.

The plans for a foundation, Mr. Cordoniere's plan, was appointed to carry out the modified design and remained in direct control of this work until the completion of the building. The palace of peace as completed does not represent any precise style of architecture, but it is regarded by architects as one of the most impressive of modern buildings to be seen in Europe. Rectangular in shape, it forms roughly a square of 85 yards by 86 yards, and encloses a beautiful formal garden. On three sides the building constitutes the court house, and on the fourth or west side are the quarters of the library. The facade of the second floor is adorned with statues, the figures representing Science, Agriculture, Art, Navigation, Commerce, Industry, Conscience, Eloquence, Will-force, Study, Authority, Humanity, Constancy and Wisdom.

The main windows of the great court are guarded by statues of Justice and Law, and over the central gable above the main entrance stands a figure of Peace, her hands resting on the hilt of a sheathed sword, around which are swathed scrolls. Just below, over the corridor, stand two lions.

The statuary, however, is not confined to the symbolic. Four men have been honored by busts. These are Hugo Grotius, who has been called the pioneer of international law; King Edward the Seventh, Sir Randall Cremer and William T. Stead, the English writer and peace leader who perished in the "Titanic." The bust of Cremer was the gift of the International Arbitration League.

Symbols in Decoration.
Within all that modern art and skill could do to symbolize the purpose of the palace has been devoted to the decoration. The grand marble staircase which forms the main entrance is illuminated from a group of stained glass windows, showing peace shedding rays of light on art and science, land and sea, commerce and industry; while to the left and right are other stained glass windows depicting the ancient horrors of war, and above the archway companion panels of terror and death.

The great court is an imposing hall about 74 feet long by about 40 feet in width and rising to the full height of the palace. It will accommodate about 300 persons. At the rear, facing the bench or presiding officer's stand, is an enormous arched stained glass window. To one side of it is a draped figure of Justice, bearing a sword, and to the other Truth, surveying her nakedness in a mirror. Over the throne is a huge oil painting, a gift of France. To the left of the great hall are the arched galleries for the use of the public. The walls are paneled with oak and the ceiling is of embossed oak in wonderful designs.

In addition to the great hall of justice and the library are numerous apartments for the judges, hung with tapestries of the old Dutch style, rooms for counsel and many others. One of the most imposing of all the chambers is that assigned to the administrative council, which is composed of all the foreign ministers accredited to The Hague. This wonderful room is paneled with rosewood and satinwood and hung with Japanese cartoons and embroidered silks. There are the rooms also for the president of the court, the secretary-general and his assistant, and numerous handsome reception rooms, all adorned with oil-paintings and ornamented with carvings in rare woods.

Vaults for Records.
Apartments also have been set aside for the press, and a complete system of vaults and steel lockers for the preservation of the records of the important congresses which will be held in the palace.

The library, which occupies the two stories to the west of the quadrangle, consists of a reading room, lecture room and central office and many rooms for study, while upstairs are the book compartments in steel.

Many nations have made gifts to the palace, one of the most interesting being that of Greece. It is a white marble copy of the famous throne found at Knossos, in Crete, which was supposed to have been the throne of King Minos.

The building materials of the peace palace came from many countries. The brick, which is the chief component, came from the famous brick near Leyden, while the hard white sandstone used for trimming is from French quarries, and the wood used for flooring and paneling is largely from Austria. The granite constituting the base of the walls was presented by the governments of Norway and Sweden.

The Italian government presented the marble which decorates the interior of the corridors, and the grand marble staircase is a gift from the city of The Hague. The stained glass windows are the gifts of the Dutch government and Great Britain; while France has sent not only the great painting, which is the striking decoration of the great hall, but many of the tapestries and minor decorations. There are vases of precious materials from Russia, Hungary and Austria, and groups of statuary in marble and bronze which ornament the first landing of the great staircase.

Gifts of the United States include beautiful rosewood and satinwood paneling of the administrative council chamber came from Brazil, and there are gifts of silk cartoons and vases from China and Japan. Rare woods from San Salvador are used to line many of the chambers.

The gift is a wonderful carpet, which, as one writer has said, is "a gift symbolic of his fate, to be trodden under foot of man." The clock in the great tower is Switzerland's tribute, and the beautiful wrought-iron grill work of the main entrance was presented by Belgium. The gift of Germany is the great front entrance to the ground, consisting of walls and handsome wrought iron gates.

WORLD WIDE CONVENTION LOOKING NOW TO WACO

Plans Are Making Among All Denominations
To Send Delegations to This City.

PUBLICITY WORK IS TO BE EXTENSIVE

Local Committees Are Named for the Baraca-Philatheas Who Are to Meet Here in June Next.
McKinney Is Manager.

Plans for the handling of the World-Wide Baraca-Philatheas, which is to meet in Waco next year, are taking definite form. The tentative date for the big convention has been set as June 6-10, and is awaiting the ratification of the executive committee. Committees to handle the details, with the exception of one or two, were appointed yesterday by J. Bates McKinney, who has been elected by the local unions to manage the convention.

That Waco is to receive a great deal of advertising advantage out of the assembly was further shown when a letter was received yesterday from W. Hawley Hudson, editor of the World-Wide Baraca-Philatheas, publications, offering one to two pages space each month in the official magazine which has a world-wide circulation. The space is to be devoted to advertising the merits of Waco as a convention city, as well as to the assembly itself. Mr. Hudson specified that he would be glad to run cuts of Waco. And acting on the suggestion the secretary of the Young Men's Business League has been appointed to secure ten or fifteen of the most representative scenes of Waco to be run during the next ten months in the magazine.

Another advertising scheme that will be a big boost to Waco will be the sending of 10,000 picture postcards to be mailed to every Baraca and Philatheas class in the world. The cards will contain a view of the Cotton Palace, a bird's eye view of the city, and some information about the climate, hotel accommodations, railroads, etc.

In addition to the above, the publicity committee includes representatives from religious and secular papers over the different parts of the country which will put Waco and the convention before the national scope of readers.

The tentative complete plans for the convention will be presented and discussed at the next meeting of the city unions on Tuesday, September 2.

The following list of committees is given out:

Registration—James P. Alexander, chairman; Cleon Pool, Orris Moore, Miss Culbertson Garrett, Miss Laurie Coates, Miss Margaret Kendrick, Neale Crow, Thos. Watkins, Geo. A. Miller.

Registration—Miss Grace Stone, chairman; Miss Marie Riddle, Miss Jane Johnson, Miss Lizzie Akin, Miss Onelda Oliver, Miss Lizzie Lieber.

Publicity—Roy Christian, chairman. Waco, Texas; Mrs. Mary B. Blalock, McGregor, Texas; Wm. J. Goldsorthy, Dallas, Texas; W. Hawley Hudson, Syracuse, N. Y.; Miss Flossie A. Byrd, Greensboro, N. C.; Roy E. Hamilton, Kansas City, Kansas; Jhona A. Weld, San Marcos, Texas; C. J. Duggan, Littlefield, Texas; W. W. Woodson, Waco, Texas.

Assignment—Gideon W. Waldrop, chairman; Oscar Hunter, Leslie Smith. Hotel and accommodations—Jas. R. Jenkins, chairman; Geo. A. Miller, Mrs. W. C. Harmon.

Committee on music and convention entertainment will be appointed September 2.

MAKES A GOOD IMPRESSION WACO MADE CENTRAL POINT

Visitor to Waco Writes Back About
The Progress of the City.

The following letter from a well known traveling man who recently visited Waco, shows that this city makes a fine impression on those who travel the country, and who have a chance to see the contrast between the various cities:

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 24, 1913.

Mr. Baker Hoskins, Waco, Texas.

My Dear Sir: I had the pleasure of making a stop in Waco last week and I wish to compliment you and your fellow citizens on the appearance of your town and the energy shown by your citizenship. I see now why so many people I meet in Texas want to move to Waco and there are a good number of folks who, according to my observation, are right now "going to Waco."

To my surprise I found everything around Waco fresh and green and in such marked contrast to other portions of Texas and the entire south just at this time of the year.

I take particular delight in mentioning your park, Cameron park, which is positively the most beautiful natural park in the south, and the foresight of those gentlemen in charge of this grand playground in improving and laying out such a park by following the advantages naturally at hand.

Another thing that struck me is the modern cemetery with permanent upkeep plan that you people are putting into operation. We have several of these cemetery parks in the east and they are perfect beauty spots.

I am almost persuaded to join the many friends that are Waco bound. Give my regards to the several gentlemen that I met in your office and count me as one prospective Wacoan.

Yours very truly,
JOHN W. STURGIS.

CLIFTON AND WITTE MARRIAGE

McGregor Young Man Wins His Bride at Corsicana—Visits in Waco.

Corsicana, Aug. 28.—Miss Minnie de Witte of this city, was married to Joe Clifton of McGregor this afternoon at 6:15 o'clock, in the Presbyterian church. The couple left at once for Waco, where they will spend a few days before taking up their residence in McGregor.

Thomas A. Caulfield of Waco and Miss Maydee Caulfield were present at the wedding. Miss Caulfield being one of the bridesmaids. Henry Clifton, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mr. Clifton will enter business in McGregor as a partner in the Cavitt-Lee company.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton arrived in Waco last night.

OFFER OF FREE DIRT

IT IS TO BE HAD WHERE NEW SEWER IS TO BE PUT IN.

Jefferson Street Is Being Improved as Far West as Twentieth Street, Columbus Paving.

"Free Dirt."

This sign on a board which stands as a marker on a huge pile of earth on North Eighteenth street announces the desire of those who control the dirt being taken out of the excavation to give it away, but there appears to be few people who want it, as it is moving slowly.

This dirt comes from a long trench which is being made on North Eighteenth street in order to lay a storm water sewer, the sewer to go down below the paving is laid. There is a lot of the dirt, which can be used for filling purposes, and it can be had for the hauling.

The city is improving Jefferson street as far west as Twentieth. The macadam paving that is being taken up on Columbus street is being used for the material for this paving, the street being graded first and then the better surface being laid. This gives Jefferson street a first class thoroughfare as far west as Twentieth. North Twentieth has a good macadam paving, and that route is being used for driving much more than ever. Within the last ten days Commissioner John Dollins has staked a light at the corner of North Twentieth and Jefferson and this makes that thoroughfare better in every way.

The work of paving Columbus street is progressing rapidly. The curbing has been put down beyond Twentieth street, and the bitulithic pavers are following directly behind the graders on the work.

USE MONEY FOR A SANATORIUM

IS THE SUGGESTION OF HOT
WELL COMPANY STOCK-HOLDERS.

Will Bring Many People Here

Members of the board of directors of the Hot Well Development company have recently expressed themselves in favor of a called meeting of the stockholders and making some use of the $5,500 which is now idle in the company's treasury.

It is unanimously agreed that the stockholders do not want the money back if it can be invested in some beneficial enterprise; and it is now proposed either to increase the capital stock enough to allow the company to build a bathhouse or to turn the capital on hand over to someone who will guarantee to put up the kind of building desired.

W. H. McCullough said yesterday: "It seems to me that the money ought to be invested in some way, if we are not going to pay it back to the stockholders. I am against paying it back, as the majority of the stockholders are anxious for it to be used, having so expressed themselves at the last meeting."

"A bathhouse would be a good proposition. We ought to get behind this or some other proposition along the same line."

Dr. J. H. Harvey said: "Now that we are going to have the dam finished next summer, and a ten mile lake along the river, plans are very appropriate for making Waco a health resort. It is usually necessary to have plenty of pleasure resorts in connection with health resorts, and the deeper water in the Brazos will furnish facilities for the amusement features."

"I think there are men in Waco right now," said Dr. Harvey, "who would be willing to take the $5,500 as a bonus and put up the kind of bathhouse and sanatorium that the hot well company seems to want."

D. E. Hirschfeld said: "Whenever you get a reputation established as a health and pleasure resort, you have practically made the fortune of your town. Rich tourists will become interested, and build their summer homes in your neighborhood, and property values are bound to rise. No region in the southwest can furnish more picturesque sites for homes, hotels and sanatorium than the region around the mouth of the Brazos, and all along the Brazos cliffs above here. This will be an almost perfect location as soon as the Brazos has deep water, which, according to the engineers, will be next summer."

"All that is necessary to start Waco as a health and pleasure resort is to put through a few enterprises like the sanatorium and bathhouse, and the rest will follow."

"All that is necessary to start Waco as a health and pleasure resort is to put through a few enterprises like the sanatorium and bathhouse, and the rest will follow."

"I think there are men in Waco right now," said Dr. Harvey, "who would be willing to take the $5,500 as a bonus and put up the kind of bathhouse and sanatorium that the hot well company seems to want."

D. E. Hirschfeld said: "Whenever you get a reputation established as a health and pleasure resort, you have practically made the fortune of your town. Rich tourists will become interested, and build their summer homes in your neighborhood, and property values are bound to rise. No region in the southwest can furnish more picturesque sites for homes, hotels and sanatorium than the region around the mouth of the Brazos, and all along the Brazos cliffs above here. This will be an almost perfect location as soon as the Brazos has deep water, which, according to the engineers, will be next summer."

Today the Last Half Holiday of the Season

Today marks the last Friday Half Holiday of the present season and we desire to express our thanks and appreciation for the co-operation given this movement on the part of our many patrons by doing their Friday shopping before One o'clock during the months of July and August. The Closing Plan has been even a greater success this year than it was last year. Our sales records for July and August show substantial increases in business, notwithstanding the fact that the store has been closed each Friday afternoon. The public by their kindly co-operation, have caused this Half Holiday plan to become general in Waco and its success means that it will be a permanent feature of each summer from now on.

NORTH EIGHTEENTH CONTRACT IS TO BE LET THIS MORNING.

Property Owners Express Appreciation of the Chance to Say What Material They Want.

At the meeting of the city commission today the material to be used in paving North Eighteenth street will be selected.

The decision of the commission several days ago to leave the matter to the property owners along North Eighteenth street has resulted in very general expressions from a large number of them. All of those to whom the Morning News has talked on the subject express approval of the commission in taking this action, and they have not hesitated to give their views as to paving.

The following expressions were obtained yesterday:

J. W. Holloway, who owns 165 feet, said: "I want the best pavement we can get, not the cheapest. I think, however, the commissioners are capable of deciding the matter better than anyone else."

W. W. Cameron, owner of 215 feet, said: "I prefer the bitulithic pavement because I think it is the best."

E. F. Bauman, who owns 65 feet, said: "The $1.54 pavement used on Franklin street is not good enough, in my opinion. The best that we have, I think, is the $2.11 pavement on Austin, and I am in favor of putting that on Eighteenth."

W. H. McCullough, owner of 100 feet, said he did not like the pavement on Franklin street, and if it was a question of choosing between that and the Austin street pavement, he would take the latter.

MRS. DIGGS HEARS TESTIMONY

Listen Intently to Story of Husband's Infidelity From Lips of the "Other Woman."

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—For the first time since the story of her husband's infidelity became public property, Mrs. Maury I. Diggs heard it today from the lips of Marsha Warrington, "the other woman."

Marsha told the same story she told in the Diggs trial. In the case of F. Drew Caminetti, charged with violation of the Mann white slave act, as in that of Diggs, Miss Warrington remains the chief witness for the government, although the name of Lola Norris is the one coupled with that of Caminetti in the indictment.

Mrs. Diggs sat just inside the rail that divides the audience from the bar of the court. She listened intently to certain parts of the testimony.

Concluding her testimony for the day, Marsha Warrington walked to a seat at the table of counsel for the government. Facing her as she drew near stood Mrs. Diggs at the table of counsel for the defense, staring at her steadfastly. The girl turned her head away.

Midway between the two tables stood Diggs, who, after adjournment, joined his wife. He looked nonchalantly first at one woman and then at the other, talking the meanwhile with Caminetti.

The girl's story today was a somewhat curtailed repetition of her testimony in the Diggs trial and carried her through the earlier stages of her experience with Diggs to the point where, Diggs said, scandal had surrounded them and began to urge the necessity of flight. Her examination will be resumed tomorrow.

Other witnesses covered familiar ground—the brief stay at a Reno hotel, the renting of a bungalow, the purchase of supplies and the arrests.

Deaths and Burials.

Mrs. W. D. Forsythe, wife of W. D. Forsythe, died at her home, at the corner of Twenty-fifth and Franklin, at 6:15 yesterday morning. The body will be shipped to Komo, where interment will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon.
